

Advice for Feminism: Ignore, Support Anti-Feminism and live on.

Seriously, this is the best advice I can give you. Right now there are hundreds of thousands of Feminist posting some bullshit on social media that would even make Joseph Göbbels question his beliefs.

And you are reading this. And that's your problem. Just don't read it. Feminism is like a war, but there is no war if no one goes to war. At the time where you argue with someone who doesn't want to know the truth but just vomit his uneducated opinion into your face, you could do so much better things. Study math, study Physics, play a videogame, play with your dog, plant a garden or repair your car.

Instead you guys are reading this bullshit. And you are hurting yourselves. Do you really think that Einstein or Newton would gave a shit about this? Of course not. They didn't gave a damn fu*k and instead of caring for bullshit propaganda discovered important parts of Science. While people post "#metoo someone talked to me omg" on Twitter, Einstein's influence made the Smartphone possible (even though people should give Maxwell more credit though).

While talking with or about Feminist you are only hurting yourself. You anger about how some people can be so stupid, but some people are just stupid. There are intelligent people (like Einstein) and so there must be stupid people too. These people are just stupid. You can't change them. You can't educate them. They are stupid and they will defend their stupidity to death. There is no way they can achieve better, because they are stupid (Danninger-Kruger effect).

Don't waste your time. Time is the only thing in this world that has no comparable value, because it's unique.

Feminism is important for real problems (just look at this dirty mess India is), but nowadays Feminism in Europe and USA is unnecessary. It's not needed anymore. For what? All of the theories of this movement are either disproven (wage gap) or shady double morale (Machos, incels, etc.).

Feminism is just draining your energy.

I agree with you mostly but if we ignore it completely then it can just go on. We can't let it consume us but we can't just ignore it.

But that would make me "misogynistic" sadfaceuwuw

Leaving this here for the feminists that troll my post history looking for dirt

It's called the Dunning-Kruger effect, but I'm afraid if you apply that to feminists they will say that you don't have a well understanding of the Dunning-Kruger effect because you have the Dunning-Kruger effect on the understanding of Dunning-Kruger effect. And also using that Nazi propagandist as an example is kind of over.

Thank you for the request, comrade.

I have looked through paladingamer563's posting history and found 1 N-words, of which 0 were hard-Rs.

Trigger them. Then they makes even more obvious fools of themselves. Then you win.

Oh feminism hasn't had a good effect in India, if anything it has destroyed their society. It hasn't reduced the number of assaults on women. It has devastatingly increased the number of divorces, single mothers and destitute fathers. So no, feminism is not important for "real problems".

Yes, don't waste your time. Flee from them.

But don't give in to cynicism either. Stake out a world view based on truths, then discover a purpose, and then search out people (read: women) who value masculinity.

I can't help myself, it's a compulsion to read that stuff. I like how infuriated it makes me. Luckily I think these "ladies" exist mostly on the Internet as all the women in my life are pretty sane and down to earth.
