

So apparently misandry + generalisation is what makes an independent women these days. Oh add in the fact that they call anyone misogynist whenever they are corrected.

The women of Indian descent I have met in America are extremely unpleasant and aggressive.

It is no surprise to me that Indian women had to be burned alive when their husbands died, because husbands were being murdered. Of course, feminists will say it was all just about random misogyny.

New idea. Every woman is a potential domestic abuser

I disagree with the misandrist parts, but i can say for certain that men from the middle east and india behave very indecently around women, i should know my family is from the middle east. Some of the tamer ones here make some sense.

I agree to some extent. Half of the men here lack self respect and any dignity. And are soyboys begging for pussy. But to say that the rest half who aren't queef huffers are assholes and rapists is just stupid.

Imagine if the roles were reversed. If I were to say that all women manipulate and all they do is sell lies and are over priced. Now if I were to put this in some public forum in general. Then you know that I'll be called a misogynist pig. But when women generalize they easily tend to get away with it.

Anyways, We all have different opinions. And in order to respect your opinion I don't have to agree with you. Cheers!
