

Feminist women are the biggest pervs of underage girls. They now have it the norm for girls aged like 10-15 shopping at victoria secret. A literal lingerie store that markets to kids? Think about that.

Well there's a big difference between Victoria's Secret and Pink. Same store, completely different types of underwear. Pink is fine for young women, but that's a little weird if you're getting lingerie at 12.

I mean Victoria's Secret makes their money entirely off women, and they don't just sell lingerie.
