The END of manspreading? Student fed up with 'men infringing on her public space' wins national design award for creating chair that restricts how they sit down

Modern problems require modern solutions

That would be uncomfortable either way

RetroVillain • 11 points • 22 July, 2019 07:18 AM

The world has literally gone mad

Godly-explosion • 9 points • 22 July, 2019 10:34 AM

She: spends her life designing a chair to stop manspreading, wins a national award

A random redditor: i'm about to end this woman's whole career

Username1642 • 5 points • 22 July, 2019 02:54 PM

I think it was a participation award

Men's knees spread because seat heights are too low - the average male floor-to-knee length (the length that determines the optimal height of a seat) is about 5cm longer than a woman's.

If this was a legitimate grievance, and that grievance didn't require arbitrary expression of feminist ideology, she could simply have designed a chair with an additional 5cm of height.

On the female version, she missed out the little table for the dwinking cup and the restraining straps that infant chairs come with these days.

If she doesn't want men infringing in her public place, she should stay in the kitchen making sandwiches.

Brother fetch my heavy flamer.

Our ancestors didn't die for some lady to make a chair specifically to crush our balls.

A few things:

- 1) "her public space". Is it hers or is it public?
- 2) Why do they have to be that uncomfortable? They're literally just flat, hard wood
- 3) Wouldn't putting on a cushion completely negate the design?
- 4) Why does the female chair force them to spread their legs? Is this the end of skirts?
- 5) Why would anyone actually buy these?
- 6) What if a man sits on the female chair?
- 7) What if a man puts his legs over the extremely low barrier?
- 8) The modelling of these chairs (showing people sitting in them) has created a new niche. Ball-less male chair models.

9) What if you want to move in your seat?

10) It's so misogynistic that they've made a chair just for men which women aren't allowed to use! (/s) How patriarchal! (/s) Burn it! (serious)

11) How the hell did she win an award for that? Or was it a participation award?

Yet women can?

StarlexYT • 5 points • 22 July, 2019 12:56 PM

Same as I thought, this means womanspreading is going to be a thing

I SAY YES TO MENINISM ALLOW MEN TO NOT SQUISH THEIR BALLS

Username1642 • 5 points • 22 July, 2019 02:56 PM

The thing is, women complain when we spread our legs. We don't complain when they spread theirs. Maybe that's the problem.

Also, YES TO MASCULISM!!!

StarlexYT • 1 point • 22 July, 2019 03:58 PM

You got a better name for masculine than me haha also I think we should start complaining and see if people laugh

SiotRucks • 1 point • 22 July, 2019 08:44 AM

Everybody has to be the same and if they don't want to they will be made. Can't imagine my ancestors putting up with criticism on the way they sit...

Username1642 • 1 point • 22 July, 2019 02:58 PM

It feels like the more they get, the more they want. It seems like now they have equal rights (which is fair enough), they want a reverse of the past (which isn't "fair enough")

SiotRucks • 1 point • 23 July, 2019 07:58 AM

Funny thing there was a French guy during French revolution who stated the law that the more freedom the people get the more likely they are to go even further. Don't remember his name tho.

This is a repost.

yungray-lay • 1 point • 23 July, 2019 02:19 AM

If these chairs become a thing I hope women don't use them around me....I don't wanna smell fish

Bryston32q • 1 point • 26 July, 2019 09:02 AM

We gonna smell hella fish ☐☐

Bryston32q • 1 point • 26 July, 2019 09:08 AM

Finally women will use up all their space on chairs. So wasteful and never grateful ☐.

Therealimpossible • 1 point • 28 July, 2019 10:35 AM

Is it just me or does she have THE SLUTTIEST SMILE EVER?

druiz4444 • 1 point • 6 August, 2019 12:20 AM

I don't see the equality lmaoo
