

"Court says 'pedophilia does not apply' — because perpetrator is a woman"

June 13, 2020 | 37 upvotes | by PucasPari

You all know the statistics show that women always fare much better than men in court for the same crime.

But do you also know that the reason why the statistics of pedophile crimes among women are so low is because the justice system refuses to recognize them.

I ask you, what might the real numbers be?

Some excerpts from this article:

In this position, the woman — naked below the waist — masturbates using a baby bottle.

On another video, the same woman is lying in bed with the same toddler. Both are naked. She begins to lick the child's anus. Looking at the camera, she smacks her lips.

A third video: The little boy is seated naked on a change table. The woman puts the child's penis into her mouth. The child giggles.

In all, investigators discovered 25,066 child pornography images on more than 50 electronic devices when they executed a search warrant on April 25, 2016, including 111 child porn movies.

Caldwell determined that McEwen wasn't such a risk, relying heavily on the evidence and psychiatric report prepared by a forensic psychiatrist with expertise in paraphilia and sexual deviancy.

The judge wrote (and read aloud in court): "Dr. Pearce testified that the current research suggests that women do not suffer from paraphilic disorders apart from masochism. This fact lends further weight to the conclusion that pedophilia does not apply to you."

As far as I am concerned, there is no doubt that this is a case of pedophilia and that this woman will continue for the simple reason that she has no reason to stop.

We hear many school teachers raping their students or women accusing their husbands of pedophilia after they have injured their children. It always ends very well for the woman.

Tend that on the other hand there are false accusations and attitudinal convictions with only the word of a woman against the word of a man as proof.

Such as in this BBC article where a woman succeeded in convicting men for sexual assault without evidence and all false. She was only sentenced to ten years in prison, while a man has already spent seven years in prison just because of her word.

Since when does justice obey women's desires and reward them with $11,000?

Just a simple awareness post for men.

Archived from theredarchive.com

Comments

unknownuseridboi • 6 points • 13 June, 2020 05:09 PM

Excuse me, but I need a long rant

SHE PLEADED GUILTY. think on that for a second. She admitted to what she did, yet she is not charged.

I have never been more angry at sexism in my life than when I read this.

The “expert” said that “Women who do this are just lonely.” Excuse me, WTF???

As Alexander Hamilton said to Thomas Jefferson” there are more than 1.2 million words in the English language, yet I cannot find a way to string them together to properly describe just how much I want to hit you with a chair.” This is how I feel

[deleted] 13 June, 2020 05:16 PM

[deleted]

unknownuseridboi • 1 point • 13 June, 2020 05:28 PM

No that is what the expert said in the story you linked. I completely disagree with her

Also why did it give me a 10 minute wait time to respond to your question?

PucasPari[S] • 1 point • 13 June, 2020 05:33 PM

My apologies.

unknownuseridboi • 1 point • 13 June, 2020 05:34 PM

It’s all good, my bad for phrasing it wrong

ThatOneGuyOfReddit • 1 point • 13 June, 2020 03:40 PM

Its called the "women are wonderful" effect

PucasPari[S] • 1 point • 13 June, 2020 03:43 PM

I've talked a lot about this effect on reddit. But here, it's definitely a psychological study that determined that it wasn't pedophilia but just masochism. But of course that effect comes into play. It's the cause of everything.