

Saw this comment on a post within this sub-reddit. What do you guys think?

October 9, 2019 | 30 upvotes | by Arctic_Blight

Archived from theredarchive.com

Comments

Arctic_Blight[S] • 12 points • 9 October, 2019 08:40 AM

My thoughts:

"Feminism isn't about equality"

"Feminism: the theory of political, economic, and social equality of the sexes," according to Merriam-Webster Dictionary. Susan B. Anthony and Elizabeth Cady Stanton would be rolling over in their graves after reading this comment.

peace-love-anarchy • 10 points • 9 October, 2019 10:06 AM

The swastika was around for thousands of years before it became a symbol of hate in the 40s. Regardless of how feminism originated, it's become clear that modern feminism is about superiority. Most equal rights groups start out wanting equality, but then the squeaky wheels take over & it becomes more about special rights.

Jabronskyi • 6 points • 9 October, 2019 01:36 PM

"Thanks, incels". Well, we found the feminist stoopididoit • 6 points • 9 October, 2019 02:29 PM

The most telling part of these posts is the common theme of using the term 'incels'. It paints the real picture here. Basically their whole world is built around sex, emotion and base impulses.

That's why to them 'incel' is the ultimate insult, because everything that's important, everything that validates them and their world view is based around whether or not they have access to sex. Nothing else is as important as that, thus calling someone an 'incel' is the ultimate insult (in their little pea-brains) because obviously everything else that might have meaning in life pales in comparison to sex.

dingdong747 • 5 points • 9 October, 2019 03:03 PM

This is why i hate feminists

[deleted] 9 October, 2019 03:13 PM

[deleted]

Arctic_Blight[S] • 1 point • 9 October, 2019 05:48 PM

We're not supposed to dos people on this subreddit I don't think so I cut it off ulgulanoth • 1 point • 14 October, 2019 04:24 AM

Yet for some reason they believe that men should take part in their degradation, no thanks.