Calling a girl a "cunt" is literally the equivalent of calling a guy a "dick" and should be treated as such, but our society treats it as way worse.

Why the fuck is this a thing? I remember getting kicked out of a frat party Freshman year because I was talking about a girl from back home who I thought was a cunt and somebody overheard me. These are both the slang terms for genitalia in both genders, yet somehow calling a girl a cunt is up there with calling a black person the n-word. Unfair double standards in my opinion.

Edit: I mean in American society. I realize that places like the UK are way ahead of us in this regard.

Australia divided over cunt usage The C word

But you might not have kept up. Bitch, Witch, Bossy and Liar are all out of bounds describing women. It's not any particular word, its shutting down any criticism of women.

Agreed, my experience is that feminazis don't accept respectful criticisms. Funny, all of the words considered have other meanings which are not derogatory. Even in the vernacular, bitch is the feminine form of asshole. In the formal, it's a canine or feline that is nursing or in heat. A female friend of mine, whose mother was a Himalayan/Persian cat breeder, used the word in the formal, yet worried about the vernacular if her mother found out. We were ten, and I didn't even know the vernacular meaning yet seems sexist or genderist (whatever modern safe space turds pretend these days) and you should sue.

Feminists: women are superior to men! but they need to be coddled in every way shape and form.

I'm a chick. I call both men and women 'cunt'. I'm also Aussie. I also call both men and women 'dick' and 'bitch', should the occasion warrant it.
