The guy should be arrested for a toxic display of masculinity. He is promoting violence! That girl is strong and independent, he should have left her with that dog, she was capable enough to escape herself.

When you can't even enjoy being a hero. I mean, that's why no one takes them seriously offender_defender_[S] • 8 points • 16 July, 2020 01:37 PM

They can abuse their father who has given up their life to see them someplace worthy. Then we are just strangers.

SulaymanCeasar • 5 points • 16 July, 2020 05:45 PM

Shouldn't have put himself in harm's way. Shit stories like this condition boys and men to disregard our own safety to save the females. A boy should be taught to keep himself safe, for future progeny. Too bad the girl was attacked but it was not the boy's place to get hurt unless he was conditioned by the family and was expected to sacrifice himself for a female to be accepted by his own parents.

He said "if someone needed to die I thought it should be me." Sounded noble but it's sad he didn't view his life as important as the girls.

offender_defender_[S] • 3 points • 16 July, 2020 06:03 PM

That statement made by him is sad indeed...no doubt. But I feel like his masculine instincts kicked in, he chose fight b/w fight&flight. At the end of the day we men have fought even the most fierce adverseries with all the best we had. We protected the women in our family without thinking twice about ourselves. Those instincts are deep grinded in our genes,it will be take time but I'm sure we will get rid of them soon enough.

SulaymanCeasar • 3 points • 16 July, 2020 06:21 PM

Indeed, back then we at least had something to protect. Unfortunately, not anymore.

Diligent-Throat111 • 2 points • 16 July, 2020 10:32 PM

This.

BillyMcTwist • 1 point • 16 August, 2020 01:13 PM

It's his little sister. He did what a big brother would do. At least one who isn't a coward. Imagine the alternative where he ran away and let her get mauled. It's not about his life not being as important as hers, it's about trying to protect someone you love.

SulaymanCeasar • 1 point • 16 August, 2020 01:20 PM

Would the girl do the same in that condition? Would she risk her life to protect him? Chances are she wouldn't.

BillyMcTwist • 1 point • 16 August, 2020 01:30 PM

Probably not. But he didn't do it because she would or wouldn't do it for him, he presumably saved her because he loves her.

Yes, his quote on him being the one who should die is alarming and not a good message for him to carry because he should know his life is just as important.

But he's a hero and should be proud of himself because he will protect what he loves, as any man should.

And remove all the political bullshit and see it for what it is that he's a young boy who saved his sister because he loves her. And he'd do it whether it was his little sister or his little brother.

PastMyBedThyme • 3 points • 16 July, 2020 09:47 PM

I mean it looks bad, I mean really bad but that's only like a day or two after the incident I'm sure that he will look better in a month or two. At least I hope so, mans didn't deserve to be done like that.

flamingc00kies • 2 points • 16 July, 2020 04:46 PM

I really, really hope it is sarcasm.

offender_defender_[S] • 1 point • 16 July, 2020 04:49 PM

You don't realise this but a part of it was an actual comment made by a feminist on that post. Check for yourself offender_defender_[S] • 28 points • 16 July, 2020 07:25 AM

When Feminists talk about killing their child in future if it's a son, to them I think this post is an apt reply. I don't see how age has anything to do with gender stereotypes.
