

Reddit Anti-Evil Operations Decidedly Evil as They Remove Pro-Equality Post from TRP

February 10, 2021 | 570 upvotes | by redpillschool

SJWs repurpose words for their own uses, slowly brainwashing and gaslighting the general public until every word has lost meaning. Racism means discrimination based on race. Anti-Evil generally means NOT censoring people like an evil fascist dictator would. Evil would suggest that race is more important than anything else, especially the quality of your character and the content of your personality.

But fucking Reddit, they just can't fucking help themselves can you guys? For fucks sake, get your shit together reddit admins. I know you're reading this. Your entire team has the collective IQ of a shit encrusted toilet seat.

First, they challenge our definitions of masculinity. They tell us that as men, we are not able to define masculinity for ourselves. Our definition is inherently toxic. That's right. Men deciding how men want to be (voluntarily, might I add. Nobody is forcing anybody to be here) is toxic. But that's okay because Reddit admin know better than men about what a positive identify for men should be.

So Reddit Admin lock our subreddit and put this nice message on the front page explicitly endorsing Stony Brook University Center for the Study of Men and Masculinities as a source for positive masculinity. Stony Brrok, whose executive director at the time was Michael Kimmel.

Michael Kimmel, the guy who denied that men could be victims of domestic violence.

It is not true, [...] that there's gender symmetry in domestic violence. That women hit men as much as men hit women.

Excerpt for all who haven't read it yet:

One of Michael Kimmel's crowning achievements is to try to debunk that men are victims of domestic violence. He goes on to suggest that some evidence is simply false, that female-on-male violence is just different, and that it is men who lose control, women are provoked.

Go ahead and watch the video- this quote is not out of context. While he doesn't deny some men are victims, he really doubts the numbers. And the Reddit Admin have just ENDORSED THIS MAN. Whoops.

I'm trying to remember where else I've heard hateful people doubting numbers of victims...

There is overwhelming proof that men are victims of domestic violence at least as much as women, if not more. Controlling for all violence, men surpass women as victims entirely, making the distinction of "domestic" misleading when men are by all means the target of the majority all violence and the victims of almost all murders No biggie, Michael Kimmel, it's an easy oversight to make WHEN YOU HATE MEN.

Reddit tells us that Stony Brook should give us insight into positive masculinity, but Stony's front page only has one reference to positive masculinity in the fight against domestic violence. And that's for men to join as allies in preventing violence against women. That's right men, FUCK YOU THAT YOU MAKE UP 78% OF MURDER VICTIMS, FUCK YOU THAT YOU MADE UP 59% OF VIOLENT CRIME VICTIMS, FUCK YOU THAT 93% OF WORKPLACE DEATHS ARE MEN. Yes, that's right. /u/spez thinks that little of you that he wants your masculinity to be defined not by fighting these truths, but by sacrificing yourself to | prevent violence against women.

Shortly after, Micahel Kimmel as accused of sexual misconduct by one of his students

Reddit had so much egg on their face, they silently removed the warning and haven't said a word to us.

Is that the voice of reason or integrity? No, that's the voice of a political narrative written by children at Reddit who didn't think people would check their work. They are so lost in their social justice world that they really think they ought to be telling men who they should be.

Imagine a group of people deciding blacks can't have black culture, or being Indian does not let you transcend race to meet women.

Well, imagine no further. A post called "F* your ethnicity" was removed by Reddit's Anti-Evil Operations team for being so daring as to suggest that race is no reason and no excuse to fail at meeting women.

| "Your ethnicity, your race, is but a portion of what women respond to. Your game, your status, your assertiveness, these things aren't magically irrelevant because your skin isn't beige."

A post giving hope to minorities, promising that their skin color isn't what defines who they are... AND REDDIT ADMIN REMOVED IT BECAUSE THEY OBVIOUSLY BELIEVE YOUR SKIN COLOR IS ALL THAT MATTERS.

Let that sink in, according to reddit admin, you cannot rise above your racial caste in life. Your failures and successes are racial. What in the fucking fuck is this garbage?

SJWs betray themselves because they're all racist, misogynistic bigots.

Reddit Admin won't respond to me because they're cowards and have no argument against me. I'm right and they're 100% wrong. Their silence proves it. (Anti-evil reads all of our posts so you know they've seen this one).

"Everybody knows the dice are loaded, everybody knows the Captain lied...."

Is it bullshit? Ofc. But at least as far back as Chairman Pao, we cannot have expected Reddit to treat us fairly. The SJW ethic is to attack and destroy your enemy without regard to traditional civic values such as freedom of speech, equality under law and the presumption of innocence. We will look back on those, someday, as quaint relics of a bygone era.

We will look back on those, someday, as quaint relics of a bygone era.

The old wild west of the internet.

Protocol_Apollo • 50 points • 10 February, 2021 06:42 PM

I remember a time when YouTube weren't shadow banning or manipulating their algorithms.

The old Wild West era ended around 2013/14.

Good times were had.

Luckily, the internet is about decentralisation.

People will eventually move off to find replacements for each corrupted site.

Replacements already exist (Reddit-Ceddit/Ruqqus, twitter-gab etc) we just got to wait for them to hit critical mass.

a14deadpool • 7 points • 10 February, 2021 08:15 PM

I think the best time for the internet was 2015-2017 before 2018 when they started really adding too much control. Because in the Wild West eras like they where people occasionally uploading murders and shit like that, there's some videos talking about old YouTube channels about people doing fucked up shit.

sndpmgrs • 20 points • 11 February, 2021 12:39 AM

I think the best time for the internet was 1996-97, when Usenet started to allow binaries: pics, vids and mp3s. Pretty much every "improvement" to the Internet since then has just been about monetizing and crushing what was already there.

I never really believed in "evil" and I've spent years trying to be a good person.

After this last ten months, both of those are out of my system.

Evil exists. I'm no longer a good, compassionate person.

319Skew • 46 points • 10 February, 2021 05:17 PM

So what else is new?

I get that you mods have a tough role. Despite the freedom to speech, you need to fall in line with the edicts of reddit. This is hard to do since those narratives change on a whim that's extremely anti man (especially white male).

Objectively, I can say with that there are two main sexes with the outlier being an anomaly. That sex and gender are closely interwoven.

But these days, as gender is defined as fluid and sex can be changed by hormone treatment, you can be born male, identify as female and want to fuck men.

I'd have said that was a feminine homosexual, but these days that'd be considered politically incorrect.

Why? Good question.

It's because of the a woman trapped in the body of a man. I can't question it because that is insensitive.

So, if I go to someone who claims to be a SJW and ask them to explain to me what positive masculine traits are exclusive (or at least predominant) in men, I get a blank stare.

Anything "traditional" is usually considered as "toxic" and anything new is fluid. I mean by what right is Caitlyn Jenner measured as women of the year?

I don't know, but being able to question things seems like a pretty good way to come to truth.

Race is no better. I can talk about the absurd reality of having people put on a pedestal by virtue of birth. If it's against white people, I get an award and funding. If it's against anybody else I'm a racist.

For the record, I'm mixed. I've seen racism on both sides of the fence.

But yea, you mods are on the Titanic trying to pump out salt water and we're all here playing Nearer My God to Thee.

Slightly untelated, but this is the reason why WM of TRP are looked upon much more favorably by MoC, than current trumpard conservatives.

If modern day conservatives in the US, were actually smart, they would seek to target MoC to join their ranks because little do they know that just like them, a vast majority of MoC have conservative values (conservative in the social and cultural sense, not necessarily political).

But nope, they would much rather bastion their white centric values and hold the leashes on neo-nazis, then try to curry favor with black, brown or yellow men. Do they not realize how powerful their side could be if they manages to lock down these 3 key demographics that reside in the US?

How many cishet MoC do you see at pride rally's or women's marches? Compare that to how many you see at BLM marches... there's a reason for that.

I see TRP growing...cold approaches will become more popularized since everyone and their mom is sick of OLD during the pandemic.

No longer will MoC have to be ashamed or self conscious of their skin color when approaching a girl chilling by herself on a beach or bench.

Mustbeaight • 5 points • 12 February, 2021 11:05 PM

Nah fr..I'm very conservative myself and I really really despise the left but what is pushing me towards the center is the blatant association of the right with white supremacy and racism..(I know liberals are very racist too but it's a different subtle brand).. as a MOC Im usually conflicted because I cannot associate with the left for obvious reasons and I cannot associate with the right because I'm not really sure when the people on the right are just regular conservative or race-conservative

Its not just reddit, its all of social media. Moderation has become the new censorship. MSN banned all comments on all news articles, because the sheeple aren't allowed to speak anymore. Certain opinions are just not allowed, and those groups that have them just have to move on. The inc.els already moved everything to their own hosted site and departed reddit, for the most part, because there is no public forum that will allow them to speak, and it might happen here at some point, since the writing is on the wall metaphorically, at the top of every page...

Woke culture is objectively racist. Critical Race Theory hinges on inherent, irreconcilable racial differences that can only be overcome via fixing the rules of the game via legislation and discrimination.

It is, by all definitions before 2010, racism at its very core.

Which is why all words must change under the new banner of social justice.

Words = Violence

Disagreement = Hate

Hate = Crime

Riots = Peaceful

_do_not_read_this_ • 36 points • 10 February, 2021 06:23 PM

Critical Race Theory hinges on inherent, irreconcilable racial differences

I was told by "the media" last summer that as a white guy I was inherently a racist.

"Inherent" means it's innate, cannot be changed: "existing in something as a permanent, essential, or characteristic attribute" according to my dictionary.

That means that no matter what I do - reparations, take a knee, suck a big black dick - I will still be racist.

No one could answer the question, though, that if I cannot change my inherent racism, what incentive is there for me to try to become a better person and less racist. They just told me I can't change it, right?

Nor could anyone answer the question that, if there's no incentive for me to try to change something that cannot be changed, why then do I have to pay reparations, take a knee, etc.

RhettButler7 • 32 points • 10 February, 2021 08:42 PM*

I'm still shocked by how censoring has become acceptable, and how discourse of differing ideas can get you ostracized.

A decade ago, I took a university class on sociology and wrote a paper linking the Feminist movement and the sexual revolution of the '70s with increased divorce rates and a decrease in happiness in women.

The professor was a staunch liberal who wore pussy hats in anti-Trump parades. But he still praised my critical thinking and well reasoned arguments. He didn't agree with my points, but it didn't stop him from giving me an A.

I do not think future generations can expect such fair treatment and civil discourse.

thatGUY2220 • 14 points • 10 February, 2021 11:37 PM

Diversity of scholarship and ideas is now a relic of the past. Offices of diversity and inclusion will be the death knell of ingenuity at American research institutions.

It's one thing to have a 19th century Transgender Pioneers of indigenous Basket Weaving as a humanities class. Not ideal but it's confined to its place.

The real issue (as I see it) comes when critical race theory seeps into research and science. CRT preaches that ANY differential in outcomes between racial classifications is evidence of per se racism. No other variable needs examining. Oh and also race isn't real because it's a social construct.

God save America

_do_not_read_this_ • 10 points • 11 February, 2021 02:42 AM

I'm still shocked by how censoring has become acceptable, and how discourse of differing ideas can get you ostracized.

This is from 1963 but it dates back to early communism. The 45 declared goals of communism. They've been doing this to our society for a hundred years now; it's just finally reaching critical mass.

We've been losing for decades. Here's just a few:

17. Get control of the schools. Use them as transmission belts for socialism and current Communist propaganda. Soften the curriculum. Get control of teachers' associations. Put the party line in textbooks.

18. Gain control of all student newspapers.

19. Use student riots to foment public protests against programs or organizations which are under Communist attack.

20. Infiltrate the press. Get control of book-review assignments, editorial writing, policy-making positions.

21. Gain control of key positions in radio, TV, and motion pictures.

22. Continue discrediting American culture by degrading all forms of artistic expression. An American Communist cell was told to "eliminate all good sculpture from parks and buildings, substitute shapeless, awkward and meaningless forms."

I was told by "the media" last summer that as a white guy I was inherently a racist.

"Unconscious Bias" is the Emperor's New Racism. First, it doesn't exist. Second, it cannot be "disproven" because any defense is met with "You wouldn't think that way if you didn't have unconscious bias", etc. Third, if it did exist - which it does not - it couldn't be cured by a four-hour dog and pony show about how "WiPiPo BAD!!" and related nonsense.

That means that no matter what I do - reparations, take a knee, suck a big black dick - I will still be racist.

"Guilty until proven innocent...and nothing proves you innocent."

No one could answer the question, though, that if I cannot change my inherent racism, what incentive is there for me to try to become a better person and less racist. They just told me I can't change it, right?

and

Logic is, as we know, a "coercive tool" of the "oppressive patriarchy", or some shit like that.

I don't bother engaging, usually, but sometimes I lob a few bombs. My fave, lately, is "Facts have a racist bias." They don't know if I'm mocking them (Surprise! I am!) or if I am attacking the truth as "rayciss!" Good times.

_do_not_read_this_ • 5 points • 11 February, 2021 02:35 AM

Yep.

After this last year, I don't even engage people in political discussions anymore. Everyone has dug in their heels and no one is changing their position.

Unfortunately, now that the Left has succeeded in making everything political, it's tough to just chit chat with people anymore.

If they try and push politics I just smile and change the subject, "Do you like pickles?" except one chick last Fall just wouldn't stop with the politics. She got a polite hug at the end of the night and went home alone - something I suspect she's used to - I went home to my regular.

Yes. Have a look at this. LA Times columnist and Awful Person Virginia Heffernan is sheltering in Montana. Her neighbors plowed her driveway for her without being asked but -

"Zot Alors!" - they are Trump supporters. Then she complains that that the neighborhood is too white. Me, thinking: "Listen, bitch, you mean the neighborhood you CHOSE to flee to from the shithole that is LA? You are welcome to fuck right back off to California if you don't like how the 'proles' organize their lives. Eat shit and die."

except one chick last Fall just wouldn't stop with the politics.

Literally, racist. Will probably join the local government and start importing non-whites.

Her neighbors plowed her driveway for her without being ask

Coming from a big snow city in the midwest, I know that the "snow blower guy" on the block has been itching to use his new Toro all year long. Sometimes they snow blow the sidewalk up the entire block. It's a real thing: boys and their toys.

It's very literally not something to complain about.

Unconscious bias is a legit thing. There are quite a few studies that support it and if you are interested I can link them. But with that said it is important that you consider your own bias and are aware of it. Unconscious bias isn't racist, actions that are based off them or that are caused by them can be. Awareness of ones bias and the consideration that it effects your own actions is key. Overcoming them by applying purposeful effort is difficult and separates the men from children.

Rock_Granite • 6 points • 11 February, 2021 01:38 AM

Rock_Granite • 2 points • 12 February, 2021 10:28 PM

OK Mr. Science. Studies also show that less than 50% of study results are able to be duplicated upon retesting. Is this one of the studies whose results will not be able to be recreated?

Let's face it. People who do studies have personal agendas. This makes the studies worth less than the paper they are printed on. That's even ignoring the problem that most studies aren't designed to prove what they say they are trying to prove.

For example, we were told for years that we should not be eating eggs, because hundreds of studies said that... cholesterol or something. Only now, years later do we find out that oops, sorry, eating eggs is perfectly fine.

Rock_Granite • 2 points • 12 February, 2021 11:26 PM

Multiple studies showed eggs will kill you. Multiple studies showed that margarine (AKA trans fats) were better than butter. Both are not true.

Besides, even if the "scientists" discovered there was no unconscious bias, do you really think they would report that and expect to continue working in the left biased academia environment?

_do_not_read_this_ • 3 points • 11 February, 2021 02:45 AM

Unconscious bias is a legit thing.

No doubt. But I'm talking about inherent bias, not unconscious bias. You don't get to change my argument in order to prove me wrong.

But with that said it is important that you consider your own bias and are aware of it.

You really don't get to tell me how to think or behave. Take care of your own business, I'll take care of mine. I don't see "unconscious bias" as a problem.

Overcoming them by applying purposeful effort is difficult and separates the men from children.

An obtuse insult. Very clever, but not clever enough to bait me.

Thanks for playing, though.

EastAwareness9041 • 4 points • 11 February, 2021 12:12 AM

I would like to introduce my train of logic when dealing with subjects like this.

During the protest that occurred due to racial injustice

1) there were legitimate peaceful protesters 2) within those crowds there also were destructive rioters

3) people who peaceful protest should and are entitled to doing so regardless of the people surrounding them

Same thing goes with the incident that occurred at the capital

1) peaceful protesting outside of the capital is legal and should be encouraged. 2) people entering the capital without proper legal notice is against the law

Regardless of political views you need to consider each protestor/rioter on an individual basis.

Proximity to crime/violence is not a crime.

I think the racism seen on AI and AsMasc is different than the racism from the woke left.

The woke left seems to be an empty ideology where Zoomers post on social media for clout and denounce white males because it's the "cool thing to do".

Whereas on pan-Asian subs, the hate for white males seems a bit more genuine and visceral because they have a genuine beef with them, due to instances of being emasculated or dehumanized.

MRAs and Woke Left don't really see eye to eye on a lot of things.

Everyone cuts their own deal in life. If minority dudes (of whatever flavor) can't get "hot girls" - by which they mean "White girls" - that is not the fault of White men. If anything it's a result of women generally favoring men of their own race - the exception being Asian women who do not discriminate against White men. Don't like it? Go argue with God/Nature/Aliens/Whatever. If you like blonde/blue-eyed sorority girls, then you need White men boning white girls and making them into moms. You're welcome.

Just like how those loud anti-gay preachers get caught giving BJs in a gay bar. They hate who they are and try to double down on showing people that's not who they are.

VasiliyZaitzev • 6 points • 10 February, 2021 10:09 PM

VasiliyZaitzev • 3 points • 10 February, 2021 10:06 PM

What I was saying is that women of all races tend to prefer men of their own race. Whether that makes them "racist" or not is a matter of how one views that preference.

Men, OTOH, are far more egalitarian when it comes to race: if it's hot enough, we will stick our cocks in it. One need only look at the British Armed Forces. Britain colonized basically everywhere¹ and men in the British Armed Forces were perfectly happy boning whatever the local shade of tawny was, under the "They're All Pink on the Inside" theory.

There is a strong argument that White women drive White racism² because the the status of White women is (and has been historically) tied to the status of White men, and thus White women cannot have White men wandering off and plowing dusky, willing, non-White babes, possibly shacking up with them, and thus reducing the supply of White men for White women, leaving them to complain "Where did all the good men go?", although in that case, they were off boning Lakshmi or Amara.

If one looks at the Raj, one can see that the switch from sail to steam made bringing families along much easier, and with wives and children come stricter social order and put an end to the White dude - Indian chick love fest. IOW, the Tommies (who may not yet have been referred to as "Tommies") in India got cock-blocked by technology.

One does see White racism among marginal Whites, also, for whom their "Whiteness" is all they have.

¹ British women and British food turned British men into the best sailors in the world.

² I say "White racism" to distinguish it from "Black racism" or "Asian racism" because the notion that only Whites can be racist is, ofc, bullshit, and is pushed to excuse the racism of non-Whites. Everyone's a little bit racist, as the song goes.

The Reddit Censorship Board is just a bunch of twentysomethings with the power to remove things, but no guidelines other than their own immature and sheltered worldview. There is no oversight, and no standardization.

A certain bunch of words just made a manchild feel icky, and he had the access to remove it, so he did. The thought that went into the decision to remove didn't amount to five percent of the thought put into writing it.

Because light-skinned people happened to become technologically, and thus historically, dominant, there is a fad among those who fancy themselves to be iconoclasts, of speaking critically of light-skinned people, and endeavouring to "defend" dark-skinned people from them.

But that's not the actual point. If it were, this particular light-skinned person would notice that he was silencing a dark-skinned person... the precise antithesis of what he pretends to be about. What this is really about is the unfocused petty resentment of an entitled manchild.

It's not going to do you any good, son.

Shall I tell you why? Because there is nothing special about Reddit. The only thing that is valuable here is people. And people are invested in the content, not the platform. We can go anywhere and create things, because we are creative in a way that you are not... you only know how to destroy.

The man whose words you hid still possesses the gifts of creativity and intelligence and drive that allowed him to write those words. He possesses them wherever he goes. You do not possess administrative access wherever you go.

He can create faster, and better, and more, than you can destroy. If you wish to stop him, the only thing you could truly do is engage with him, and change his mind. But your political faction has lost the power to argue its position in much the same way that chickens have lost the power to fly. You rely upon silencing others because that is all you have left.

GayLubeOil • 22 points • 10 February, 2021 07:57 PM

Guaranteed the people who removed the ethnic masculinity post were too stupid to actually read through it. They saw a post that had race on it and just pushed the delete button, sans introspection.

How much do you think the Reddit Anti Evil Operations people get paid? Not much. In all likelihood they are of similar intellectual caliber as the Facebook censorship crew.

RedUncleCad • 5 points • 10 February, 2021 09:22 PM doubt it. progressives hate any system that allows individual responsibility and bootstrapping one's way to success look how charter schools are blasted for the crime of educating inner city kids of color to the highest levels testing allows.

Get fucked you pansies

arakouzo • 27 points • 10 February, 2021 06:19 PM

Let's not give Reddit too much credit.

Reddit did not read the F your ethnicity post, disagree with the content, and erase it.

The only thing Reddit read was the title of the post.

And "F your ethnicity" sounds offensive and racist. Like telling a black person to F his blackness.

Some admin or moderator saw the post title, it looked racist, post got erased. There was no thought beyond this.

There was no contemplation of the issues presented in the post or some conspiracy to promote racial identities per progressive liberal conspiracy policies.

The title offended some admin or moderator, so he deleted the post. That's all.

duhhhh • 15 points • 10 February, 2021 07:17 PM

Since you are brushing the example above off...

Here they removed highly upvoted thread asking for men sexually assaulted by women to describe their experience.

<https://m.imgur.com/nMFIgPa>

Here is the thread when it was 10 hours old.

<https://archive.is/SCDbC>

Here is the thread in reveddit.

https://www.reveddit.com/v/AskReddit/comments/f15nbj/men_who_were_sexually_harassed_assaulted_raped_or/

What evil were they sparing the world from by removing the entire topic?

arakouzo • 1 point • 10 February, 2021 07:35 PM

I'm not arguing that there's not some kind of crazy progressive bias on social media.

But this particular post removal was not a calculated move by rabid liberal cancel culture fanatics who read the content and struck back in retaliation. The title alone got it erased. Nobody in charge even read it.

redpillschool[S] • 8 points • 10 February, 2021 07:38 PM

I disagree. The Reddit anti-evil operations team has made it very clear that by way of tacit endorsement everything they do not remove is deemed to be acceptable speech and therefore reflects positions and ideas that the team finds acceptable.

In order to hold such a position, they must, by default, know what it is they do not want on the site and therefore they must be aware of what they remove.

The "censor" button they wield is not random nor used capriciously. They have a full time staff dedicated to sorting through precisely what they believe you cannot hear.

arakouzo • 2 points • 11 February, 2021 08:08 PM*

I posit that one thing Reddit definitely doesn't want on its site is a post entitled "F your ethnicity". That post title appears front and center as a link people click on to read the post, then at the top in big bold letters. And that this, alone, would be reason for some admin or moderator to assume racism and click the delete button without even reading the post.

The Reddit people don't have the time or motivation to click every post with an objectionable title and carefully consider whether the content is racist when the title itself sounds racist enough to delete the post. They're looking for things to delete and excuses to delete it, and there it was right in front. An objectionable title.

While I do not disagree that Reddit has a strong progressive liberal bias, it is very likely that the specific post being discussed was not carefully read, considered, and selected for targeting by progressive cancel culture fanatics who dislike its content, but was just deleted unread because the title says "F your ethnicity."

In fact, if the exact same post, word for word, was posted right now, but the title was something happy and non-objectionable, like "Race is not a factor in dating because women are great and super open-minded", but everything else in the body of the post was identical to the original, the post would probably have sailed through just fine unless it has any buzz words in the body that trigger the Reddit bots to do things or the Reddit system to send alerts to moderators.

skierguy89 • 4 points • 10 February, 2021 07:23 PM

Can you imagine the totalitarian hubris, the colossally narcissistic attitude behind the belief:

I know what ideas millions of people should and should not be exposed to.

As Hitchens said:

It may not be determined in advance what words are apt or inapt. No one has the knowledge required to make that call. And, more to the point, one has to suspect the motives of those who do so.

Bunch of California tech millionaires sitting in their fancy offices deciding who to silence. Pathetic.

usedtimecapsule • 4 points • 10 February, 2021 09:59 PM

Modern society has a goal, that goal is to keep men as compliant and beta as possible. They do not want strong men because they will rebel against the woke feminism pronoun agenda that they have.

TRP is the complete opposite of their goal, trp creates alphas. They hate this sub with a passion and will probably ban it soon enough.

Notice how they keep p.rn subs active, incel subs active... they do this to keep the betas happy. They have their p.rn, and they have the space to complain.

drv12021 • 3 points • 10 February, 2021 07:47 PM

The world is slowly turning toward 1984 dystopia and a lot of people are noticing that too. Liberal will use brainwashed soyboys and purple hair whales for their gain but that will eventually fail because the alphas will raise to their power to put the society again and the cycle will repeat itself again later on.

GroundPole • 2 points • 11 February, 2021 04:29 AM

Its actually a combo of 1984 and brave new world. BNW is when you have unlimited mass entertainment (videogames, netflix, youtube, insta) Sexual promiscuity/degeneracy is expected and drug use encouraged (weed legalization, antidepressants Etc)

1984 is the stick and BNW is the carrot.

I agree with you point that female to male violence is mostly undocumented/unreported and that there is injustice there. But your sources are generally considered bias. The archive that you pulled from reference a study that 83% of the respondents were male. So you have to consider how this could scew the responses.

But with that said domestic abuse as a whole is fucked. Let me know what you think about it.

Imagine a group of people deciding blacks can't have black culture

It would be a pandemonium. This would be all over MSM. Reddit would be "#cancelled".

you cannot rise above your racial caste in life. Your failures and successes are racial. What in the fucking | fuck is this garbage?

It is often referred to as "Social Marxism".

Another facade around the good ol' "divide and conquer" strategy.

Divide people into ever smaller boxes (gender/race/height/abilities/fitness/etc) based on ever-changing victimhood scale and watch all the in-fighting. Tell people they are what and where they are because of oppresshun by some other group (scapegoat). Impose language and thought control. Dont let the proles question the message, dont stop and think about the hypocrisies committed, wrongthink is baaaad.

Now game-ify this for the Internet generation. Tie one's "social score" (karma, likes, re-twats etc) to how good one adheres to the ideology of the day.

BrownGummyBear • 1 point • 12 February, 2021 04:24 PM

"SJWs betray themselves because they're all racist, MISSANDRIST bigots" fixed that part for you, Reddit admins hate men not women

Mustbeaight • 1 point • 12 February, 2021 10:59 PM

Lol imagine thinking masculinity should be defined by anyone other than what women think and in in any other way that is intimidating to women.. that's the crux of it. Reddit and ever other leftist social media platform are very women centric.. it's an absolute shame how men have to water down their masculinity just to accommodate themselves to leftist ideals of Soy..oops..masculinity

[deleted] • 1 point • 24 February, 2021 10:58 PM

Not sure if this has ever been mentioned here but I recently read that when you consider all inmates who suffer rape and violence in the statistics, men are actually raped in raw numbers that are higher than the number of women who are raped. Not sure if that's true, but if it is it certainly changes the game a little bit.

pappo4ever • 1 point • 26 February, 2021 09:57 AM

We went from "Race really matters, it defines what you can or cannot do" to "You skin color doesn't matter, only what's inside matter" to "Now race really, really matters again" in 50 years. There is rampant, aggressive and obvious racism everywhere, disguised as anti-racism.
