And OP is right: there are more pathetic details in the comments.

"That was a humlliation fest. Right after the fight, the other guy went to take a shower (we were in their place), to which the wife said to me "You go after him", to which I replied I would shower at home. Then she, half-jokingly, said "I'm not asking. You better comply, or I'll get my man to beat you up in front of your wife again." She said that while looking at my raging stiff.

Once the guy came back and I was heading to the bathroom, I could hear she saying to him "Hubby, even your sweat is stronger, I can barely smell his!", to which the three of them laughed out loud.

And to top it all off, when I came back from the shower, my wife told me she was spending the night there, and the other wife added "Don't worry, we'll take care of her". She made it sound polite, but I take it as "We'll have a threesome with your wife so leave us alone". I suspect that was what happened when I left."

WTF?
