Dear men, you don't get it both ways.

MESSAGE FOR MALE LURKERS

Men, you don't seem to get that you don't get things both ways. You don't get to expect women to fawn over you and shower you with love, affection and compliments while you refuse to treat women with basic kindness and call other men who do so cucks, white knights or simps. You don't get to champion the validness and importance of male emotions while constantly downplaying women's emotions, calling them crazy or hormonal every time they display any emotion other than happiness. You don't get to talk about how men need to cry and then tell women they are being manipulative or "acting crazy" every time they cry. You don't get to say you need physical affection from women while you spend your time objectifying women online and ignoring your significant other. Feel free to add on ladies.

ETA: you don't get to expect women to full fill traditional women's gender roles while you flat out REFUSE to fulfill traditional male gender roles.
