

Men here don't chase "all types of women". Otherwise, they wouldn't complain about one type of female.

July 25, 2021 | 328 upvotes | by LillthOfBabylon

This is inspired hearing guys here claim "Men cast wide nets and they still get no catch", and "We chase all types of women and we're just telling you about female nature."

The typical complaints I hear on this subreddit:

- She has "Beta orbiters".
- Fucks Alphas ASAP, but has Billy Beta waiting for it.
- Has hundreds of male followers online.
- Always expect men to pay for dates.
- Only dates beta males for a free meal.
- She rides the cock carousel.
- Only settles for a Beta when she's 30+ years old.
- Egoistic
- Blames everyone else for her awful taste in men.
- Very entitled and expects everything to be handed to her.

These are oddly specific qualities of a female that I don't possess, and I rarely see other women possess. Assuming guys aren't lying about their experiences, I have met that type of female and quickly lost contact with her. Why? Because she's an obnoxious manipulative drama queen. However, she always has a boyfriend with her because she's outgoing, hot, a party animal, and very sexual with guys she barely knows. Of course she's egoistic. Guys love giving her attention and they go so stupid over a nice pair of tits in their faces that it's hilarious.

"But all women are like that!"

What proof?

Most women in their 20s have less 5 sexual partners.

BOTH men and women fuck more within a steady relationship than single. Also, with the exception of 0 partners, men have more sex partners than women annually by a 2-to1 ratio.

Accross multiple countries, women showed to have lower self-esteem than men. If most women were entitled prima donnas who think they can do no wrong, it would definitely show. Yet, it shows the opposite.

"All your posts are wrong because everyone's lying!"

Well, you better have proof that you're right and I'm wrong.

Even if most women are bimbos, you can't find women who AREN'T bimbos? Most women I know aren't bimbos. Just like most men I know aren't disgusting perverts that excuse vile behavior of other men. Most people I know are nerds because I choose to surround myself with nerds, not because they're the majority. If men truly do go after all types of women, why don't men put in the extra effort to avoid bimbos?

I think people who make complaints like that genuinely believe they chase “all types” of women because any other type of woman is invisible to them.

The quiet common girl isn't posting thirst traps on social media to titillate/enrage these dudes. She's hanging out with her LTR and setting her accounts to “private.” She’s not out at the club looking to bang an alpha in the bathroom while the red pillcel watch. She’s at a game night or folk dancing with her small circle of friends. And don’t even get me started with the fat ladies, who are permanently invisible unless these guys need something to bash.

Point is, it’s not “AWALT,” it’s “ATheWomenIWantAndSeeConstantlyOnTheInternetALT.”

Taipanshimshon • 8 points • 25 July, 2021 04:59 PM

Not invisible.

Unavailable

TotalTravesty • 12 points • 25 July, 2021 05:11 PM

Eh, not unavailable. Just not easily available. Even the ones who don't have an LTR probably still have their social profiles on private. Some still have no interest in clubbing every weekend. Others are too preoccupied with school or work or family to be participating in gangbangs on the regular (as Reddit likes to imagine "average" girls doing). The ones who use dating apps either use them passively or putting in a fraction of the time earnestly looking for a date compared to most guys.

These girls are available, but you can't expect the same convenience getting them as you get when you're ordering Chinese food on DoorDash. But to guys who think Tinder is the only way to date and a Google Scholar search is a reliable shortcut to social understanding, any amount of effort = invisibility.

NockerJoe • 8 points • 26 July, 2021 07:30 AM

To be fair if someone doesn't go outside, has all their socials set to private, isn't looking for a relationship, and isn't really doing anything to indicate they want anything to do with you, then you could be forgiven for thinking they don't want anything to do with you. There's a really wide gulf between "all women are Tinder sluts" and "good women are more closed off tighter than fort knox".

Taipanshimshon • 3 points • 25 July, 2021 05:19 PM

What I mean by unavailable is unavailable socially unless you are near their social circle.

Old / clubs / bars etc are full of specific types.

But even those average normal girls are sometimes in those scenes even if briefly.

anotherdamnloser • 43 points • 25 July, 2021 03:48 PM

Exactly. Most of them expect to get way younger insta models, only a certain look, then get mad when they are rejected. They don’t cast a wide net. Or maybe it’s just a lot of the same type.

Although I really don’t wanna be with a guy who asks every woman they see out. A guy at my work wanted to be with me, but he ran lines, and the same line to all of my coworkers too. You don’t really like me and think I’m amazing when you’re saying it to every girl in the building. Huge turn off, you don’t want me you just want a warm body and a hole. I’d never say yes to someone like that.

jedzy • 16 points • 25 July, 2021 08:47 PM

Just had a guy on pof ask to meet and when I said I didn’t think we were compatible he said I look like a dog anyway....I asked if that made him feel better he said yes, I asked him why he asked me out in the first place - he hasn’t told me yet...

anotherdamnloser • 1 point • 26 July, 2021 12:03 AM

Wow! Good grief smh

XtoDoubt • 23 points • 25 July, 2021 03:59 PM

Most of them expect to get way younger insta models, only a certain look, then get mad when they are rejected.

The most bizarre projection by women is that men don't cast a wide enough net. Run this experiment for yourself. Post an ugly woman's pic on a dating site and see the flood of guys reaching out.

spinsterchackies • 28 points • 25 July, 2021 05:48 PM

Being considered for a rough pump and dump isn't a good thing

reluctantly_red • 3 points • 25 July, 2021 06:21 PM

If the rough pump is good there isn't going to be a dump.

LillthOfBabylon[S] • 16 points • 25 July, 2021 07:19 PM

Even guys admit to never expect to be girlfriend material just because a girl knows how to work a dick.

Consistent_Address62 • 2 points • 26 July, 2021 04:42 AM

There is no such thing as a 'girl knowing how to work a dick' men take control when it's time for them to pop.

hellochoy • 4 points • 26 July, 2021 06:06 PM

Women already know that men are willing to fuck anything their dick can fit into, we don't need to make a fake profile to find that out when it's already common knowledge

XtoDoubt • 2 points • 26 July, 2021 06:19 PM

Then why do women say stupid shit like what I responded to?

hellochoy • 1 point • 26 July, 2021 06:23 PM

Because some men do expect to get with women way out of their league and then get mad when they're rejected lol. Is that the 'stupid shit' you're referring to?

XtoDoubt • 2 points • 26 July, 2021 06:43 PM

This is not a significant issue.

Barneysparky • 34 points • 25 July, 2021 04:20 PM

We have already made it clear that there are men who swipe on every woman.

That doesn't mean they would date her.

XtoDoubt • 9 points • 25 July, 2021 04:36 PM

It'll decrease your pool, but it's still easily achievable as an ugly woman to get a bf.

Barneysparky • 3 points • 26 July, 2021 02:13 AM

It's also achievable for you to get a girlfriend.

Stroll down to your local homeless encampment, offer room and board in exchange for sex.

XtoDoubt • 5 points • 26 July, 2021 02:49 AM

I mean, if you remove the word easy and change the entire point being made, sure.

Barneysparky • -1 points • 26 July, 2021 03:27 AM

How is that not easy?

mydikishomofobik • 5 points • 25 July, 2021 04:58 PM

Men often have rock-bottom standards for sex. So I suspect ugly women, especially the ones on dating sites, get bitter cause players who pretend to be successful will pump and dump them. However, there are also nice guys who will date and marry ugly women. Obviously hot women have a bigger pool of men who want them, but ugly women can often get bfs more easily than their unattractive male counterparts.

Barneysparky • 2 points • 26 July, 2021 02:11 AM

Dating apps are 70% men. Meaning women significantly are not on dating apps.

The women you want are not there, an ugly girl on a dating app is basically a masochistic.

Join clubs, talk to people, meet someone you like.

VasilyZaitzev • 19 points • 25 July, 2021 05:12 PM

Run this experiment for yourself. Post an ugly woman's pic on a dating site and see the flood of guys reaching out.

The real eye-opener for women would be for women to post an account on OLD of an average, decent-looking guy, not a Chad, but not a horrific incel either, and then watch how few responses they get as "him".

_Neon_Shadow_ • 7 points • 25 July, 2021 06:55 PM

They are gaslighting themselves. Its actually hilarious. This is why men constantly call women crazy. They are quite literally living in a separate reality, all because their ego is too fragile to acknowledge the truth. They are no better than Trump supporters.

TrueStorms • 0 points • 25 July, 2021 10:12 PM

Post an ugly women with a bad WHR and have her say she's only looking for a real man to spoil her and is not here to hook up. And get back to us.

XtoDoubt • 4 points • 25 July, 2021 10:31 PM

I don't understand the point you're trying to make.

TrueStorms • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 10:34 PM

Ugly women get swiped on by guys who either swipe on everyone or hope she's an easy lay. Also many "fat" women that men post as popular OLD profiles have great proportions and are looking for sex.

XtoDoubt • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 10:50 PM

Do the same thing for relationships. The pool will shrink, but not much.

TrueStorms • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 11:06 PM

Lol

silkPJson • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 11:46 PM

This is so true. So many men just repeat the same line to every woman he sees hoping it'll land. They don't see how insulting that is and wonder why women won't date him.

anotherdamnloser • 1 point • 26 July, 2021 12:03 AM

biggestuzifanea • 19 points • 25 July, 2021 03:20 PM

Have you ever seen things like the show geek love? I have a female friend that went to one if those events at a comic con and there's lines of men trying to date girls that are average and below. Then we're supposed to pretend girls are these angelic beings just waiting to give any guy a chance that crosses their path.

The women here wouldn't consider themselves "bimbos", when they made a thread about what the women here prefer its the same 6ft higher earner that literally every other girl wants, when are we gonna stop the projecting?

TotalTravesty • 20 points • 25 July, 2021 03:34 PM

Have you ever seen things like the show geek love?

I have not, but I'm also not going to lend much credence to some reality show that doesn't even have a wikipedia page. They're cast and edited to provide the most entertainment value, not to present a realistic cross-section of society.

So I guess we have to add "Women who wouldn't make for good TV" to the list of invisible people.

anotherdamnloser • 6 points • 25 July, 2021 03:51 PM

That's a laugh right? If you're basing reality shows as your truth, we'll that's sad. Shits so fake.

biggestuzifanea • 8 points • 25 July, 2021 03:38 PM

It's not a reality show, it was filmed at comic cons... you could actually go there and enter. How delusional are you? Notice how you didn't say anything about the rest of the post, at least you know I'm correct

TotalTravesty • 14 points • 25 July, 2021 03:45 PM

You have to know how television production works, right? They're not going to spend the time editing and broadcasting the boring people or the common matches or the uneventful rejections. That doesn't get views/clicks. The attention--your attention--goes to the entertaining use cases. Fun to watch, but I'm not going to form my outlook on society based on it.

I didn't say anything about the rest of the post because it was incoherent nonsense:

The women here wouldn't consider themselves "bimbos", when they made a thread about what the women here prefer its the same 6ft higher earner that literally every other girl wants, when are we gonna stop the projecting?

Are you implying that they're bimbos because they like tall rich guys? Who's projecting what? What even was that sentence?

biggestuzifanea • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 03:56 PM

Never mind, you can't read at all

Consistent_Address62 • 2 points • 26 July, 2021 04:48 AM

They absolutely do!

Sure, a man's value doesn't increase in female-dominated taco-fest spaces, so I dont understand why OP keeps trying to say men go for the same type of women.

OP is referring to men on r/PurplePillDebate and their descriptions of a very specific type of woman that most average chicks do not match up to. It becomes clear what the obvious selection bias is.

biggestuzifanea • 9 points • 25 July, 2021 04:40 PM

biggestuzifanea • 4 points • 25 July, 2021 05:15 PM

It's no coincidence that the biggest complainers spend most of their time on the internet. I get it. The internet is addictive.

_Neon_Shadow_ • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 07:00 PM

The internet is a staple of modern life. Your comment is laughable.

decoy88[ ] • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 11:56 PM

Not really. There's a difference between frequent use of the internet and spending the majority of your time away from others physically.

When your only point of reference is through a screen it's a problem. Social groups that meet irl still exist in abundance.

Oncefa2 • 27 points • 25 July, 2021 01:51 PM*

In fairness there's legitimate research showing that men grade women on a bell curve, but women rate all but the top 20% of men as unattractive.

So a literal average woman is seen as average to the average man. But an average man is seen as below average to an average woman.

And I think this is a legitimate problem with legitimate social implications.

But I also think the common red pill taking point that OP is addressing is often hyperbolic or missing some nuance.

A lot of men do literally approach and try to ask every single woman in whatever context we're talking about, including the fat ones -- bars, tinder, whatever. And that's what they mean by a "wide net". That's been a near universal strategy for men trying to find women since before the Internet.

Now if there are a lot of women who aren't swimming in areas that men drop those nets because they don't like bars and they don't like online dating, that's another issues entirely. Men try to put their nets in places like at work or in public and other often inappropriate areas to get those types of women all the time because that's how empty their nets in otherwise "appropriate" areas are. So if that's not a wide enough net to you -- so wide it becomes inappropriate and turns into a recognized social hazard -- then I don't know what to tell you.

TotalTravesty • 29 points • 25 July, 2021 02:39 PM

Oh here we go...

In fairness there's legitimate research showing that men grade women on a bell curve, but women rate all but the top 20% of men as unattractive.

So a literal average woman is seen as average to the average man. But an average man is seen as below average to an average woman.

Putting three seconds of thought into taking the half-second action of swiping right doesn't amount to much in terms of real-world interaction. The over-reliance of this "study" just shows that women who aren't app-fiends--women who put a little more thought into their dating decisions--are invisible to these guys.

A lot of men do literally approach and try to ask every single woman in whatever context we're talking about, including the fat ones -- bars, tinder, whatever. And that's what they mean by a "wide net". That's been a near universal strategy for men trying to find women since before the Internet.

You're describing a shotgun strategy, which rarely amounts to much because garbage in = garbage out. Even in jobs like cold-call sales, shotgun approaching doesn't project to a high rate of success. The problem isn't what red-pill would call high standards or hypergamy or whatever. It's that the guys' dating strategies are trash.

And shotgunners don't get credit for not considering most women invisible. Desperately seeking a warm wet hole by any means necessary is not the same as understanding that there are different types of people.

TodTheRod01 • 11 points • 25 July, 2021 07:48 PM

Do you know how many times a guy has to approach/make a move to even get a phone number....

It IS a numbers game...even guys with good game aren't clearing more than 40-50% of the time...and thats guys who are basically pros at picking up women

TotalTravesty • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 07:58 PM

I think there's a difference between being persistent in your pursuit for a date and hitting on any vaguely female-shaped person in arm's reach.

In online dating terms, it's the difference between a guy who mindlessly swipes right for five minutes and calls that "approaching all types of women" and a guy who actually considers if he would like the girl before swiping right.

In real life terms, it's the guy who bounces all over a venue with the same generic line trying to get a number in record time and a guy who actually tries talking with someone for a couple of minutes before trying to get a number. You can play the numbers game but everyone can tell a guy shooting for pure volume from a mile away.

goochiegg • 7 points • 25 July, 2021 10:36 PM

and hitting on any vaguely female-shaped person in arm's reach.

80_20 • 18 points • 25 July, 2021 05:10 PM

Shotgun strategy was determined to be just as effective as individual personalized messages because of the amount of time it takes to shotgun vs write something personalized.

Christian Rudder looked at the data and determined this in the book Dataclysm.

So you're wrong about the shotgun approach.

This also is in line with what you say doesn't really matter, it's your picture that really matters.

If this is based on the OKCupid data, it's possible that the attractiveness of men on the site is not normally distributed. If it's mostly unattractive men using the site we should expect ratings to skew low.

80_20 • 12 points • 25 July, 2021 04:37 PM

Christian Rudder ran a social networking pictures through okcupid to see if okcupid users were just ugly.

He got the same result.

Source: Dataclysm

Exvareon • 16 points • 25 July, 2021 04:01 PM

You don't need OKCupid data. Anyone with a pair of eyes and at least one braincell can see that while they were growing up, most guys got no attention at all, while a certain minority had multiple girls at disposal.

On the other hand, only the ugliest of girls got no attention and relationships, and even then they would eventually get one.

VasiliyZaitzev • 5 points • 25 July, 2021 05:15 PM

Correct. There is a residual value to pussy. Young, non-Chad dick is cheap and plentiful, and therefore valued less. When men are young and haven't done anything in the world besides be attractive, women have nothing else to judge us on.

Men rated on a bell curve but only interacted with the top percent of women. So, it's what this person is saying. Men say they are less picky than women but they don't act like it.

And I believe men ask a wide variety of women out. There's particular women they're focused on though.

Banned_BY_SOYMEN • 17 points • 25 July, 2021 04:34 PM

Make a male profile on OLD of an average looking man. There's a strong chance you'll get very few likes or matches. The men getting matches (usually top tier men) actually get the opportunity to reply back to multiple women, while most men in general do not. So it's inherently not an apples to apples comparison.

kitteneos • 3 points • 25 July, 2021 04:39 PM

But which women are getting the likes is the point.

Banned_BY_SOYMEN • 11 points • 25 July, 2021 05:17 PM

I've never heard of a woman struggling to get likes on OLD.

Special-Armadillo-99 • 4 points • 25 July, 2021 04:54 PM

No it isn't the point at all, because just because you message the hottest women doesn't mean you don't find the rest attractive. What we're talking about is what each gender feels is average or what they are attracted to, not whether or not the most attractive of each gender gets the most likes

kitteneos • 6 points • 25 July, 2021 04:58 PM

So women say they only like the top 20% and message those guys.

Men rate women on a bell curve but only go for the top percent.

Aren't men the ones always saying to watch what people do?

Special-Armadillo-99 • 5 points • 25 July, 2021 05:22 PM

This isn't about the action, but the attraction.

Women being willing to message men they don't find physically attractive isn't relevant to who they find attractive.

What men are saying isn't that no woman will ever message a man they don't find attractive. That's an action. What they are saying is women don't find most men physically attractive.

That's literally all. Who messages whom doesn't alter anything.

LillthOfBabylon[S] • 5 points • 25 July, 2021 05:51 PM

This isn't about the action, but the attraction.

So you guys only believe in "Watch what they do" for women, but you want us to blindly believe what have to say.

Women being willing to message men they don't find physically attractive isn't relevant to who they find attractive.

You guys choosing to only associate with the hottest disorts your experiences with women. Thats why guys here think all women are gold digging mean girls.

What they are saying is women don't find most men physically attractive.

Who cares?

Special-Armadillo-99 • 8 points • 25 July, 2021 05:54 PM

So you guys only believe in "Watch what they do" for women, but you want us to blindly believe what have to say.

The thing is women say they want a nice guy but pick assholes. Those things contradict.

Saying men find more women attractive than women do men isn't contradicted by hot women getting messages.

You guys choosing to only associate with the hottest disorts your experiences with women. Thats why guys here think all women are gold digging mean girls.

You women seem to misunderstand awalt entirely. It's about saying all women are running off the same programming. As in all women are hypergamous etc

The extent to which they will follow these instincts will vary but that doesn't mean some women do not have these feelings they are just better at controlling their instinct, at least until they aren't.

Who cares?

Obviously you since when that's pointed out you just have to make strange claims that you believe would disprove it.

If you don't care why bother to rebut

reluctantly_red • 4 points • 25 July, 2021 06:27 PM

So, it's what this person is saying.

That men are less delusional. Still aspirational but more rational about it.

80_20 • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 04:35 PM

Sigh-not true.

Women swipe right on 14 percent of men on tinder.

You can't talk to people on tinder if you don't swipe right on them.

kitteneos • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 04:39 PM

Look at the women who get messages. Why do you think this is disproving what I said? Genuine question.

80_20 • 7 points • 25 July, 2021 04:47 PM*

Because you can't read the graph that show men messaged everyone including ugly women and women messaged no one but the top 15 percent of men?

Yes men also shoot for their ideal women. That's why there is a huge spike for ideal women. But you are ignoring the rest of the graph where it shows men messaging women as a lesser rate than ideal, but not solely their ideal.

Yet women are clearly shown that they solely message the top men.

You're entitled to your own opinion, but not your own facts.

kitteneos • 3 points • 25 July, 2021 05:11 PM

Ok I see your point now. True, some average women will get messages but the tier of women who get most of the attention are the same tier of men women message.

But aren't those hot guys down in the one message a week range? Women don't message anyone.

80_20 • 5 points • 25 July, 2021 05:18 PM

Women only swipe right on 14 percent of men on tinder. Men 46 percent.

She can't talk to men she doesn't swipe right on.

Thus women are far more picky than men. Period.

This point is so rock solid I don't know why people argue against it anymore.

In fairness there's legitimate research showing that men grade women on a bell curve, but women rate all but the top 20% of men as unattractive.

attractive/unattractive to what end though? "Good for a fuck" or "good for an LTR"? both men have different answers to this based on the risk/reward of engaging in either.

PirateDocBrown • 4 points • 25 July, 2021 05:36 PM

No doubt that's a lot of it.

DisastrousSundae • 3 points • 25 July, 2021 07:08 PM

Tbf, you have to be pretty gluttonous and lazy to be both fat and male. Testosterone is coursing through your body and your biology literally is designed for you to gain muscle.

kungfuchelsea • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 05:25 PM

This is absolutely untrue and likely just a projection of your own feelings. Fat men that act helpless to improve themselves (for example, declaring that people like them are doomed before they begin, so they shouldn't even try) are consigned to their mammas basement. I don't know any person worth a damn that would see an overweight man that was otherwise making an effort in other aspects, and think that he probably lives in his moms basement, or that he deserves to. Obesity is so widespread that most people aren't going to even bat an eye unless someone is morbidly obese, or obese and obviously lacking basic personal hygiene and social skills.

PirateDocBrown • 5 points • 25 July, 2021 05:33 PM

Fat women lacking all sorts of skills or other redeeming qualities can get laid, and successfully reproduce. Not so much for fat men.

And this says nothing of all the "you go girl" themes in media.

kungfuchelsea • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 05:52 PM

Maybe you can stop putting sexual intimacy on such a pedestal and see that "getting laid" is not the only thing on this earth worth doing.

Because there are far more fat chicks than there are fat guys? Last I looked which was about 5 years ago, the female fat index was sitting at 45% and growing. The males around that time were at 36%. Now I'd say fat people need to lose weight but it would appear that there are far more fat chicks running around screaming about body positivity and demanding that people respect their fat asses for being fat. For me personally, I find it hard to respect a person who can't say no to a french fry.

Demasii • 18 points • 25 July, 2021 02:31 PM

It's the same as how stereotypes works.

It's rare for one person to embody all 10 traits but within the demographic many of the individuals have at least one or multiple of the list of traits.

Over time a person will combine all their experiences dealing with that demographic to one symbolic fictional person.

Everyone has flaws and when a man is constantly failing to attract the opposite sex, they are going to focus on those flaws to rationalize their developing hatred.

M3taBuster • 18 points • 25 July, 2021 05:35 PM

Ok, then what advice do you have for a man that can't meet women at college or work (for one reason or another), and the good women you're referring to don't go to bars and clubs or use Tinder? How the hell are they supposed to have an opportunity to meet them?

thelastjeka • 4 points • 26 July, 2021 02:18 PM

I used dating apps, not tinder but okc. Met My bf there and we've been together for 3 years. Not perfect but truly intense love. Worth a shot.

fakingandnotmakingit • 3 points • 26 July, 2021 11:21 PM

I actually think this is the issue.

A lot of women I know who don't do the whole party girl, thirst trap, casual sex thing aren't on dating apps.

Or they try it, have a hard time coping with the way OLD works (like me) and drop out very quickly.

But also after university almost everyone's social circle shrinks. I'm an outgoing and extroverted woman and even then I don't meet up with new people often. I meet like maybe 1 new person every couple of months.

Most of my friends (including me) who have ltrs by their late 20s met their partners at university. Some of them met through the wider social circles and maybe like 3 people met significant others on OLD. And those that did were the people who were outgoing and even more extroverted than me.

So a lot of men looking for women who are not your stereotypical tinder girl can't find them. Those women are hanging out with their friends and no one else. And while they complain about not having a bf, they're also not willing to dive into the sausage fest of OLD.

M3taBuster • 2 points • 26 July, 2021 11:59 PM

Good to see that someone else has had the same experience, and it's not just my imagination.

For my own info, would the women in your social circle who want a bf, but aren't really putting themselves out there be receptive to being approached by a random guy in public? Like at a store, park, mall, etc.?

fakingandnotmakingit • 3 points • 27 July, 2021 01:50 AM

Tbh probably no. Which obviously does not solve your issue (sorry!). I think it's sort of been "ruined" for us as young teens when all the guys who approached were crude, on power trips or obviously just wanted sex. And now we just ignore random dudes on sight. Also most of them don't think of guys while they do their shopping etc.

don't get me wrong I think it's partially their fault too because they aren't trying (boyfriends don't fall out of the sky in your lounge after all). But some of them did try to put themselves out there and just found that dealing with dick pics, crude messages, and having to go on multiple first dates with dudes you barely know except for their profile pic and extremely unhelpful bio. I'm an extrovert and I find that daunting.

Some of them have turned up to the speed dating events or singles meet ups and that's showed slightly more success.

But I think the common thing has just been that it sucks to be single but actively putting yourself out there is tiring and not worth it. So they'll complain about it, but have resigned themselves to being single. Others have decided to take the approach of "if it happens it happens". The more outgoing ones have joined meetups for friends and hopefully they vibe with a guy. I've had girl friends ask me if my husband has guy friends they haven't met that I think they'd vibe with. At least one got set up, but obviously meeting one new guy every 6 months isn't great maths.

Tbh I don't know if they're really content being single. I think quite a few are lonely but feel like the current dating market just isn't for them. And they think actively looking to find a guy is more trouble than its worth.

Sorry that wasn't very helpful. .

Step 2. Don't be unattractive

M3taBuster • 12 points • 25 July, 2021 07:29 PM

That has nothing to do with it. Even if you're drop-dead gorgeous, women don't just materialize in your living room. We're talking about a lack of opportunities for meeting good women, which is a completely separate problem.

_Neon_Shadow_ • 3 points • 25 July, 2021 07:40 PM

M3taBuster • 3 points • 26 July, 2021 05:21 AM

Good women aren't on Tinder. Either that or their profiles are invisible. I have to swipe through like 50 profiles to find one girl that doesn't have her ass hanging out, isn't drinking in any of her pics, doesn't make some reference to smoking weed, etc.

ConfusedMeglodon • 2 points • 26 July, 2021 04:01 AM

Everyone's "good woman" is gonna be different. So the question you should ask is, where does your "good woman" look for men? At church? Playing sports? Online? The second question would be, would your "good woman" date someone like you? Why or why not?

M3taBuster • 2 points • 26 July, 2021 05:29 AM

At church?

Probably, yeah.

would your "good woman" date someone like you?

Probably not, because I'm not religious. But I can't just up and "decide" to be religious. So what the hell am I supposed to do?

ConfusedMeglodon • 5 points • 26 July, 2021 05:48 AM

Well if the woman you want doesn't want someone like you, then you have a few options: pursue a different type of woman, or accept that it's gonna take time to meet the kind of person you wanna be with that also wants to be with you. Once you get older, you could consider settling/compromising on some of your preferences if you haven't had success.

You could also think about why you are attracted to religious women? Is it that they are religious, or something else? If you just like conservative women in general, you could go to political clubs/events for conservatives.

Your linked data is based on self-reported data, which even the researchers in those studies themselves heavily doubt and noted it's likely due to deception due to differences in views of gender.

Who cares if it's across multiple countries? Why would you include countries that has a much lower social media footprint and OLD usage to one that does?

Why are you also ignoring the most major statistic too? Over half of the population said to be of dating age does not want a relationship.

Holy shit, I did read the posts, do you understand how averages work?

If you have a group of values, say half of them are -10 and the other half is 10, it averages out to 0. In this case though, you miss the real effect of either region by consolidating them all together. That is more or less the effect you get when you include countries with a much different and more traditional culture than Western countries and is why they shouldn't be included in the same cohort for the study.

tonyghow • 20 points • 25 July, 2021 03:56 PM

Most of us can only really go by anecdotes and friend's anecdotes. I've been dating for almost 7 years after a long marriage, and I have found most of your bullet points to be true.

Most women I've dated:

... had orbiters. Male "friends" who would text them at all hours of the day and night. In about 3 out of 10 of those women, the "friend" later made a move that proved he was just waiting in the wings. The orbiting men are understandable, but the naivety of the women is what bothered me. Thinking that they were "just friends".

... was married to an alpha asshole and is now seeking stability.

... would get 75+ male 'likes' on her social media as soon as she posted a solo picture, but only ~10 female 'likes' when it was a picture of us.

... expected me to pay for dates. That's just how the dating world works.

... used me for food. Quit a few used me for foodie calls. There will be women who take advantage of this because, why not?

... had lots of sexual partners in her 20s and is now (35+) wanting only one. This one doesn't bother me. I prefer sexual experience.

... was egotistic. Would ask me to compromise my wants and needs, but wouldn't compromise hers.

I'll add a bonus bullet that may not be part of AWALT, but is very common IME. Where the woman uses her mental health issues to justify her behavior and her need for one-sided support and validation. That was nearly 7 in 10 women for me.

So I wouldn't say it's AWALT, but more so MWALT. And I wouldn't say I'm "chasing" these type of women. I definitely cast a wide net and give them all a chance. The red flags popup on their own. I'm currently dating one that only has 2 of the 10 bullets in your list. Which is a rare keeper.

p.s. men also have their own separate list that makes them AMALT or MMALT. There's really no changing the status quo in the short term.

thelastjeka • 2 points • 26 July, 2021 02:22 PM

True! It was interesting reading this list as a woman, but I had long ago recognized it's also challenging for men to date, especially on a big city. Out of that list, the only one I carried was the orbiters and once my bf made his case against them and established a boundary I purged the orbiters.

I'm a strong believer that if I expect my boundaries to be respected I must do the same. Lead by example? I guess. Good luck!

Quiet, old and/or unattractive is generally invisible

To both genders

Special-Armadillo-99 • 14 points • 25 July, 2021 04:50 PM

Why do women say things like this.

Yes it's not unique to any gender, but that doesn't mean one gender can't be more guilty of it.

Women literally don't recognize at least half of men as being human beings in any way.

Men find so many more women attractive that even if it's true that unattractive women are invisible the number of women invisible due to their looks is magnitudes smaller than the amount of men suffering the same fate.

SaBahRub • 10 points • 25 July, 2021 07:02 PM*

Please explain how women "don't recognize at least half of men as human beings"

Special-Armadillo-99 • 5 points • 25 July, 2021 08:01 PM

Treat them as though they aren't there or with straight up hostility

SaBahRub • 13 points • 25 July, 2021 08:51 PM*

Indifference is extremely humane. Otherwise we would very inhumanely be leading you on

And if hostility is inhumane, than many many men don't treat women humanely either

Special-Armadillo-99 • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 08:58 PM

I didn't mean to say it was a gendered thing but more women find men ugly than the opposite so one gender is exposed to this behavior more and it would logically be men

SaBahRub • 9 points • 25 July, 2021 09:25 PM

Finding someone not sexually attractive is inhumane?

Special-Armadillo-99 • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 09:46 PM

When on earth did I say anything remotely close to that nonsense

SaBahRub • 7 points • 25 July, 2021 11:09 PM

Your reasoning is that women are more hostile to men than vice versa due to attraction, or lack thereof

Hostility, in your view, is inhumane ("recognize as human beings") ergo, lack of attraction is inhumane

Special-Armadillo-99 • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 11:26 PM

Hostility isn't necessarily part of lack of attraction. Some choose to be hostile to those they aren't attracted to and some don't.

It's the Hostility not the lack of attraction that's the problem.

And I'm just speaking on the paradigm that someone else presented. I even said IF we are to believe etc

Kookerpea • 3 points • 25 July, 2021 09:38 PM

How can you say that when men commit so many more crimes against women as women do to them?

lilac-blouse • 6 points • 25 July, 2021 08:24 PM

You're proving the whole point of this post. The women you're referring to, the ones who don't recognize at least half of men, are not average women! They're just the only ones people on PPD care to talk about. Average people have average lives and date other average folks. Y'all focus on very attractive, wildly above average women and pretend like they are the only ones that exist.

Special-Armadillo-99 • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 09:50 PM

Honestly it's not that at all that I see. I see men who can't get laid by ugly fat women

lilac-blouse • 10 points • 25 July, 2021 11:55 PM

That's because almost every "ugly fat woman" has experienced a guy who absolutely does not like her and finds her repulsive yet pretends to be nice in order to sleep with her. The approach includes a lot of stupid insincere compliments and love-bombing followed by the typical "fuck you, you fat bitch" when the woman doesn't immediately give them what they want. Ugly fat women don't exist to be sexual objects for angry average men who feel slighted by well above average attractive women. Pretty sure most of them wait to find sincere guys who see them as human beings that deserve affection, love, and respect. So yes, I agree with you. Plenty of men "can't get laid" because they don't even like or respect the "ugly fat women" they're talking to and those women know that.

AntifaSuperSwoledier • 22 points • 25 July, 2021 01:31 PM*

As a general pattern in mate selection we date people who are similar to ourselves, similar to our families and similar to past partners. Both in behavior and appearance.

This probably explains a lot of why people end up in the same situation over and over. Even abuse victims often had more than one abusive partner and family abuse.

(I have never dated women like you describe in the OP. I feel like my own dating experiences have been consistently good over my life. When I see men who all adhere to RP ideology all describing the same relationship pattern it seems pretty clear they've selected for that kind of person.)

_Neon_Shadow_ • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 07:09 PM

Didn't Alexander Grace highlight a study that showed exactly this? Women repeatedly date the same type of men over and over. They never learn from bad experiences whereas men have a bad experience and avoid women like that afterwards.

Snoo_16536 • -3 points • 25 July, 2021 01:51 PM

Or you have a higher SMV compared to the women you've dated. Women portray different personalities based on the SMV of the man involved.

mydikishomofobik • 14 points • 25 July, 2021 04:12 PM

This sounds like projection. Women are the ones who only chase one type of man and then complain about it later on. And if you take out a few of the points you listed (like 100s of male followers online, egotistical, and maybe the cock carousel thing) your points describe the average woman. The dual mating strategy (alpha fucks/beta bucks, wanting a nice guy only when they're 35, 40 or 50) is very common among women to the point of being typical.

LillthOfBabylon[S] • 10 points • 25 July, 2021 04:16 PM

It's like pizza. It can have a variety of different toppings, crusts, sauces, and cheeses but in the end it is still a pizza. Modern women are very similar in what they practice despite coming from all walks of life.

CFinCanada • 20 points • 25 July, 2021 04:00 PM

Well, I'm a party girl which is to say social and extroverted and most of my female friends are the same because like attracts like. 3 of my female friends work in film and television. None of them are mean they're very warm and kind. 2 of them are vegans and don't drink much, though they are into 420. I like to party and dance and don't want kids but I've been in a monogamous relationship for six years and I drink little, don't smoke, don't do any drugs, and never have. My best friend who is an actress has been in LTR for a year and a half and while the guy is handsome facially he doesn't make six figures and he isn't over six feet tall he's just a hardworking blue collar dude that she met through friends, namely me. I'm actually quite tired of the stereotypes all around. Just because a woman is attractive or likes to go out doesn't mean she is mean-spirited, cold, or self-destructive. Just because a woman isn't quiet doesn't mean she's sleeping with half the world at any given time. Maybe she's just friendly and likes to make friends.

It's hard for me to have sympathy for men who don't have any sympathy for and just really like to demonize women (red pill men). Like, why do they deserve a relationship with a woman when they don't even like them and just view them as a caricature of a human being?

demonize women (red pill men). Like, why do they deserve a relationship with a woman when they don't even like them

RP guy here. I don't hate women, nor do I think anyone should. I wrote a top-level post about not hating women for the young guys who are pissed off. Guys in what we call the "anger phase" are pissed because they feel they've been lied to about what women want. Most guys just want a girlfriend, preferably one that doesn't come with a lot of drama.

A lot of old-school dating advice amounts to "So you're in Kansas and you're trying to get to NYC. Yeah, just travel due west until you get there." Once you understand the rules of the game, things get a lot easier.

anotherdamnloser • 12 points • 25 July, 2021 04:05 PM*

Me too. I don't have Instagram, tik tok or Snapchat. I don't go to clubs. Although I'm recently widowed and don't think I'll ever date again anyway but if I do you'll never see me doing OLD and it's just not me to do selfie's and wear much make up or pose and all that stuff ppl do. I'm 40's so maybe it's just my age but I can't stand all that and all the men I work with just want a list of women to chat up and "you up" kind of scenarios and I am not about being on some guys dick rotation with a bunch of other girls.

throwawaybear61 • 23 points • 25 July, 2021 02:37 PM

Do you actually honestly get zero attention? Or do you only get attention from men who aren't the ones you see online and want? The stereotypical hot guys? Honest question.

throwwie234 • 15 points • 25 July, 2021 03:20 PM

I don't have a boyfriend and never had. I don't have any "orbiters" (like 95% of women), no one is hitting on me. I don't even have straight male friends and never really had. So, I'd say, yes?

But to be honest, I must admit that in my previous job, a cleaning guy in his 50s was (I suppose) hitting on me regularly and the last time I went to a club (1.5 years ago), a "hot" guy tried to get into my pants quite aggressively. And that's it.

You know, I was very pretty till I was around 13 years old. And till that time, I had plenty of attention, of course, on primary school scale. Friends that were boys, inviting me for "dates", giving me little gifts and compliments, inviting me to dance etc. So, you know, I know the difference.

I'm practically invisible now.

Special-Armadillo-99 • 22 points • 25 July, 2021 05:01 PM

ddouchecanoe • 8 points • 25 July, 2021 03:59 PM

I think 95% of women having orbiters is a fairly gross over estimate.

I am a moderately attractive woman in a relationship of 5 years, I get a reasonable amount of attention via flirty acquaintances and strangers I encounter off the streets. I do not have any orbiters, the few I've had over the years I cut loose asap.

level20000 • 2 points • 26 July, 2021 01:11 AM

95%? That's a really high number. I definitely have those people, I just ignore/block as much as possible. I would never have put myself in the top 5% (in the whole world) on looks at least. Pretty sure it's more than 5% of women who garner that type of attention.

throwwie234 • 8 points • 25 July, 2021 04:03 PM

Maybe I didn't express myself clearly enough. I meant that I think 95% of women DON'T have any orbiters.

majani • 4 points • 25 July, 2021 09:55 PM

If you count social media, 95% of women do have at least two orbiters either in their DM or liking all their posts. Women just ignore them till they go silent, but they're still hanging about, make no mistake about it

Teflon08191 • 18 points • 25 July, 2021 03:17 PM

A woman who insists she receives "no male attention" is one of two things: An extremely anti-social shut in that radiates "stay away from me" vibes when she makes her rare appearances in public, or a liar who is warping to her convenience the definition of no male attention.

throwwie234 • 6 points • 25 July, 2021 03:31 PM

And what is a male attention to you? Because to me, it's basically a man spending time with a woman, when he doesn't have to. So, being her friend, chatting at work, flirting, hitting on, helping etc. And nothing like that happens to me.

And I don't think I radiate any unfriendly vibe since I'm getting regularly asked for directions or to take someone's photo by other women.

goochiegg • 9 points • 25 July, 2021 10:49 PM

do you use dating apps?

I have a problem with these. We only have Tinder that has the reputation of being a hook-up app, but none of these more "respectable ones". I had account there for an hour once. During this time, I got two rape threats, got terrified and uninstall it.

have you ever tried outright letting a guy know you are interested?

I tried. I was laughed at.

I have had men yell for fun that they wanna rape me or call me "big titty lady gimme your phone number!" Don't you dare tell me I should be happy for that and men have it soooo hard because of that. That ain't something to be glad about!

Special-Armadillo-99 • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 05:03 PM

So the latter of the two scenarios I mentioned then.

CentralAdmin • 12 points • 25 July, 2021 02:53 PM

You're absolutely right. I'm a woman, none of the dotted points is applicable to me and of course, I'm completely invisible to men.

https://www.reddit.com/r/WhereAreAllTheGoodMen/comments/o5pp65/step\_right\_up\_and\_claim\_this\_prize\_who\_is/

Look at that woman. She is lying about her age. She is overweight. She managed to get someone to sleep with her to become a single mom.

OP has a point that there is a type that RP men talk about. But the similarity of their stories means that the type is far more widespread than OP would like to believe. These guys are not all chasing the same women. These are different women from different parts of the country and the world who exhibit these traits. She is also cherry picking because it suits her narrative but whatever.

That woman in that link is definitely below average and yet someone wanted to sleep with her. That sub has countless examples of women who wasted their youth on men who wouldn't commit then wanted to find a decent man when it was too late. Even those women will find men showing interest.

This isn't an insult to you, but you need to be willfully blind to the attention you are getting to make the claim you are invisible to men.

It's sad really that men here are so defensive and soon going to start to deny.

The women are also defensive AF. Your anecdote doesn't beat a man's. Especially because men have to approach many women and get rejected in ways women rarely experience. Lesbians and bisexuals aside, women are not on the other side experiencing women's behaviour. Women are the ones who target one type of man or the top tier yet men rate women on a bell curve.

RP's argument also isn't just about prevalence but about how unrestrained hypergamy is openly accepted and hardly criticised in the culture, meaning there is an incentive for women to be at their worst behaviour. Even average women ghost. Even average women fuck Chad and make a beta wait. Otherwise sexlessness among men wouldn't be growing at a higher rate compared to women.

A woman doesn't need to be a party girl to get male attention. She just needs make up and a social media account. As I mentioned, women don't know what it is like on the other side so they are completely thrown for a loop when they do experience life as a man.

For example:

Norah Vincent - Self-made man)

Norah eventually went on to say that being a woman was more of a privilege.

Girl tries to be guy on Tinder

Here you will see not only the barren wasteland that is online dating for men but also the same issues OP has brought up with women chasing the top tier men and not bothering with average men.

Here is another example of what it's like for men who are very attractive:

<https://www.boredpanda.com/social-experiment-guy-created-fake-tinder-profile-hot-model-pictures-germanlifter/>

What this tells men is that being hot gets you sex quickly even from women who claim to not want casual sex or non committed sex. Some of those opening lines were downright disgusting. Women make rules for betas and break them for Alphas.

Now we can sit and debate whether it's a specific type of woman that does this and agree that these men shouldn't go after women who behave like this. But when it's so many women who do this, and it's either feast or famine for men in the SMP, men are going to figure out there is a trend of hypocritical behaviour among women where they make the men they want for relationships to wait but will gladly have casual sex with men they treat as sex objects.

Furthermore, those men who do get sex from a lot of women do not hold women in high regard because they notice the trend as well.

Is every woman riding the cock carousel then looking for a bailout at 30 when she is a desperate and overweight single mom? No. But enough women put off marriage, have casual sex in their youth and have become single moms that it's become a meme. The good ones are married off young. There is a record number of single people in the US. The falling marriage rate is also blamed on men (the betas who must provide) and the US is experiencing a population decline.

Clearly something fucky is going on here.

Helmet_Icicle • 17 points • 25 July, 2021 03:10 PM

Further reading: Study shows morbidly obese women have the same number of sexual partners as average weight men

CentralAdmin • 5 points • 26 July, 2021 08:58 AM

I have seen that before.

Morbidly obese men do not get hit on by women, even obese women.

This is why OP's premise is flawed. She assumes there is a healthy supply of women who would ignore the incentives that a culture, which is very forgiving of women's poor behaviour, could offer.

The reason so many men become Red Pilled is not because they are chasing after party girls. It's because they discovered the girl next door fucked a thug the day she met him.

throwwie234 • 6 points • 25 July, 2021 03:37 PM

Men have it very rough these days, I'm not gonna sugarcoat anything here. Also, I agree there's clearly enough women to make all these stereotypes, memes and subreddits appear.

But there's also plenty of women like me- shy, quiet, introverted, sometimes unattractive, average, sometimes really pretty but not in aggressive, bimbo style. We're invisible and inaudible.

If you are reasonable hot chicks hit on you. Open and blunt as well as covert.

They never tell or would admit.

Reject them and you'll see how bad women really handle real rejection.

Some even open ask you to fuck you.

I had a real bad episode when one asked me to come with her, her boyfriend aside, and she told me blunt that he has no problem to watch.

Another one asking me to fu$$ her while married to one of my friends.

Chicks who are really into you will do anything to make it happen.

I've had them calling in sick, borrowing cars from their "friend" to drive to me, even one made her husband use credit card loan to visit us to tell me that she can't stop thinking about fu$$ing me (i was married at that time - she too).

So - never ever fall for the narrative and rationalization of a female.

Completely agree with this post. I feel like people are going to be navigating the world based on the cultures and the values they were taught. The world is so diverse so I often want to ask men who I see complain what does the women he's chasing actually look like, what is her background, education history, etc...I think then it would be easier to have constructive conversations.

You can really only speak for the spaces you have access to. If you live in an area that is 90 percent white and you only have access to people in that area then you're speaking about women in that area. You don't have the knowledge and experience to speak on a woman from an other race. An example I saw recently on this subreddit was where a man said that career driven women go after younger men. He admitted that his assumption was based on what he saw on tv. He had no access to these women in real life yet still chose to make assumptions on them.

I thought your post was going to go a different way, but I want to add that I don't think these men are fully opening their options... a great many of them are sexist misogynists which is the fraternal twin sibling of racism. Are you open to dating all races of women?

DiscussionReader • 7 points • 25 July, 2021 10:24 PM*

Yes, all races, almost all weights (I put the limit at 250lbs), all heights, all income brackets, I'm sure these are statements you have already read on this sub.

I literally find 95% of women my age attractive. I'm 5'11", fit, below average face, I have a couple of female friends but never had a woman interested in me sexually or romantically. I'm dateless: 0 matches on dating apps, no woman has ever approached me or shown any interest etc. Yet I can get attention from gay very easily when I look for it. I tried switching my preference to gay men on dating apps and my match rate was insanely high (40-50% match rate, the same as average to above average women on straight OLD). I was shocked, I matched with men of all looks levels, hundreds and hundreds of matches, including hot guys. I received many cute messages and compliments, I literally never felt so desired. I'd say it's safe to assume that most gay men my age (23) find me physically/sexually attractive, this percentage is close to 0 with women. And this is not just me, this is every average looking straight guy who has tried the gay dating experience.

vaporwav3r • 1 point • 26 July, 2021 10:27 PM

It's probably your approach and personality, tbh. The way you come off. Personally, I have rejected good looking men/men I was attracted to simply based off of their initial behavior and how they carry themselves. You might need a makeover. A confidence makeover too, or at least fake it until you make it. Women can smell desperation and lack of confidence on men as well.

ConsumeDevourRepeat • 0 points • 26 July, 2021 09:35 AM

These bitches love using that fucking racist card. As if niggas out here cant have a preference within their own ethnic group. God damn the lack of introspection.

vaporwav3r • 1 point • 26 July, 2021 10:25 PM

Damn you mad huh lol If you're going to complain until the cows come home about not being able to find a woman but only will date 1 race of woman, you're a fkn idiot... and half the time, reasons for racial preferences are really shitty, baseless reasons.

thro_away_2021 • 20 points • 25 July, 2021 04:26 PM

I wholeheartedly agree. And I'm a guy lot of these guys are probably only dating/seeking ine type of woman, because the women with these entitled traits are:

DING DING DING. HOT.

If a woman is this entitled it's because she can afford to be, and if she can afford to be, it's because she is getting tons of male attention. And if she's getting tons of male attention it's because she is: probably REALLY HOT, and kinda easy too. (If you're attractive to her)

Maybe if these guys started trying to date real women, and not just get their rocks off with what they think is a sure thing, who is also super sexy, then they might yield better results.

goochiegg • 3 points • 25 July, 2021 10:45 PM

Most women get hella attention from dudes. Even my crush that i had a couple months ago who was just kinda above average was getting like a lot of guys in her dms. When i first slide her dms she eben blew up on me because she thought i was one of the 50 or so other guys that saw her ass pics. This was just a normie girl. Where would you even find " real women " ?

thro_away_2021 • 3 points • 25 July, 2021 11:52 PM

Not on Snapchat, Instagram, tinder, or whatever other bullshit online crap that the kids do these days.

mydikishomofobik • 0 points • 25 July, 2021 04:33 PM

Yeah, when they're ugly, old, used up and can't get attention anymore they're ready to settle for a nice beta. Which brings us back to the dual mating strategy.

LillthOfBabylon[S] • 16 points • 25 July, 2021 05:10 PM

That only proves my point further and proves thro_away further. You want hot easy girls who like playing games until she's old and desperate.

thro_away_2021 • 14 points • 25 July, 2021 06:21 PM

Usually I don't agree with you Lilith but in this aspect ur 100% right.

Many great, attractive women out there with amazing qualities who don't act like this. The women who act like this in my experience are:

Really really attractive Sexually quite liberal (assuming you are somewhat fuckable yourself).

I will say, there is something to be said about a man and woman's "natural state" when it comes to seeking someone on the sexual marketplace.

As in, certain traits are going to be found inherently attractive in the opposite sex. For men, it's height, charisma, athletic body types, humour, and financial independence. For women it's face, hips/breast, charisma (but female tinted. A charismatic woman will exhibit different traits than a charismatic man), and ability to have fun or be pleasant to be around.

So there is some truth to the "women are naturally hypergamous and men are naturally polygamous" perpetuated by TRP, but it's not inherent truth.

Like yeah a woman is obviously going to be more attracted to a man who has more attractive traits. That isn't inherently wrong or shallow.

i certainly don't blame women for wanting to date a tall, funny, laid back, well endowed, financially independent athlete, over a fedora wearing, short, small dick, fat , neck beard incel who lives at home still.

The same works in reverse as well.

If you want a super attractive partner, who is interested in casual sex, no commitment, and pleasant to be around don't be surprised if she's looking to replace you with a better model, or if she is kinda entitled. She can AFFORD TO BE, because she is in super high demand.

Attractive Men do the exact same thing ALL THE TIME.

michael1962-01 • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 06:49 PM

Let her play. Learn to handle it. Have more fun.

mydikishomofobik • -4 points • 25 July, 2021 06:19 PM

No, I just want hot and easy girls, not the ones who waste my time playing games.

thro_away_2021 • 11 points • 25 July, 2021 07:39 PM

Yeah well, if she's hot AND easy, then she is inherently going to play games to her advantage because she can afford too!

She has what's in hot demand. Casual sex with a gorgeous woman.

What you think she should just yield that too you because you want it?

What does she get out of it?

If I was a hot woman interested in casual sex, I would make the men jump through hoops to get it too. Why the fuck would I give up a high demand product for free, especially that it's more than likely once the man gets what he wants(an orgasm) he will broom her.

That's like asking apple to give everyone the late. iPhone merely because they want it. Why the hell would they do that with no recompense?

You want hot casual sex? Be prepared to deal with some bullshit then. Unless you're such an attractive man that super hot women want to fuck you over other men, to get themselves off.

So your options are this:

1) become the top 5% man. Get some height(lol), a good looking face, a pleasant tan, a nice haircut, good money, a charismatic fun attitude, good social skills and a cut physique. Then you will have attractive women all over the place looking to fuck you

2) compromise on what you want.

There is no middle ground.

How so

mantapacktribe • 4 points • 26 July, 2021 05:06 AM*

theres too many things to list but in general the idea that we men are dick driven simpletons that only do things for pussy, that relationships are just a means to an end to have "pussy on the tap" i desire intimacy and emotional connection more than sex. without emotional connection sex is very unsatisfying for me and it's nearly impossible for me to cum. i've fucked around 70 women and with most of them i never had an orgasm because they were women i hooked up with for casual sex from clubs, parties and tinder.

even though i fucked my current gf already on the first night we met, it took a while for our relationship to develop to the point that i started to find sex with her satisfying.

Gilmoregirlin • 19 points • 25 July, 2021 04:16 PM

I agree, also female. I am not like this, I have met a few women like this, I quickly ousted them from my life. I think part of it is that it's always easier to lay blame then to accept it, so when looking to lay blame men pick the worst type of female possible and do it. The second thing I see a lot of is the type of women men are chasing are often way out of their league and either do exhibit this characteristics or appear to to them because they are rejected and feel dejected. I think most men on this page have a variety of women looking to date them, I would even wage a guess that 99% of men on here do. But those women likely do not want to have casual sex, they want to date, and those women likely are average looking women. I think that online dating has given people the perception that they have the ability to date anyone they want, and as a result someone of average attractiveness now thinks that if they are not dating a 9 or 10 they are settling. This hits men much harder, because women tend to seek more than just looks than men do. So many times I hear men saying that women's standards are too high, or they are superficial but in the next breath say : I am not dating her she is fat, or she is average or why should I have to settle? The reality is that those women were never available to the men, and they were never going to be, and never will be. The perception that they are however, is what keeps the men angry, bitter and single.

thro_away_2021 • 28 points • 25 July, 2021 04:28 PM*

“Those women don't want to have casual swx, and are average looking women”

This. 1000% this.

Chances are, the guys in question are looking to just acrew(or have casual sex relationship) with a super gorgeous woman.

Well the super gorgeous women who want to have casual sex? They can afford to be this picky and exhibit this behaviour because they will ALWAYS be able to find guys they are attracted, who are willing to subsidize this behaviour in order to have sex with them.

Gorgeous women who want casual sex? That's like, in the sexual marketplace, the most high demand “product”.(not using the term product as a way to objectify, but as a metaphor)

The suppliers get to dictate the price, and if people (men in this case) are willing to pay that price , well, that's the price of the product. The tenants of supply and demand dictate the value of something in ANY market, the sexual market included.

So to my fellow men, you have two choices here:

1) become the man that gorgeous casual sex women want to fuck. Make money, be funny, be tall, go to the gym and get a ripped body, and pay for her dates and shit. Then you will get all the sex with all the gorgeous women you want.

2) compromise on your desires , and find a woman who wants to commit, or a woman who is less-than-gorgeous

You can't have your cake and eat it too.

IceC19 • 6 points • 26 July, 2021 12:53 AM

I don't think most guys complaiing here are exclusively wanting top attractiveness women for casual sex at all. Their problems are much more basic than that.

Gilmoregirlin • 2 points • 26 July, 2021 02:30 AM

They may not want super models but they almost exclusively seek women out of their league and refuse to even consider women they deem to be below them. We consistently hear that women's standards are too high but when men say that they are basing that assessment on their own standards presuming women follow them and they don't. How many times do I hear “I'm a 6 and she's a 4 so I should be able to get her. Who does she think she is walking around thinking she can get an 8?”

Except women don't think dudes a 6 they think he's a 2. It's like men set up their own system and expect women to follow it and it's a sense of entitlement and they just don't. Do you see the issue?

Men do chase all types of women ... for purposes of sex. If these women are 4s and above, generally. We can accept the bullet points you outline if we are given sex and not a lot of hassle before or afterwards. However, data shows women are having much more sex than most young men. Case closed. ( Cue CSI music: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=E6B\_2lbKB0U )

LillthOfBabylon[S] • 8 points • 25 July, 2021 05:06 PM

If you're only looking at the 0 partners portion, women are having 4% more than men. If 4% bothers a guy, he has an inferiority complex and most women are not putting up with that.

Also, if you're talking about frequently its most coming from relationships, which you guys refuse to get.

MGTOWManofMystery • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 06:06 PM

As usual, you bring up good points. But I have to raise more counterpoints. I don't think it is helpful to only look at zero partner situations. A normal, functioning society (at least for the last 5-7,000 years) has had young men having much more sex. Having sex once every two-to-four years isn't moving the needle for young men in the West. I also feel that men aren't refusing to get into relationships; most BP men are very willing and happy to enter into relationships with women in the top 50-60%. Having said that, we also know that LTRs lead eventually to dead bedrooms. And in Western relationships, men must assume more responsibility with little to no authority -- so men are giving up rights to enter into relationships. Again, BP guys are oblivious to all of this and would still happily be male feminist allies and dads for Western women (when said women age out of their hoe phase). We RP guys know all the above; hence we eschew LTRs and focus on our sexual strategies (which is verboten in the West - forbidden for men to focus on their one sexual gratification).

Danil34234 • 9 points • 25 July, 2021 05:36 PM

Don't even try, the "pill" communities are overflowing with offended men/incels. I totally agree with you, I've never met "bimbos" in real life, they definitely exist, but it's not even 10% about all women.

And all the guys I know who have relationships are dating with absolutely normal girls, and no, they are average guys

I don't disagree. They're chasing the women with the highest market value then complaining they cant get them and its all because women are horrid and mean. Simultaneously they complain about women being fat, having made mistakes that she wants to move on from, single mums etc. Its almost like they expect women to compromise massively without them having to compromise at all.

rivetcitymayor • 5 points • 25 July, 2021 02:27 PM

No we don't chase women with highest market value lol

Lateralanouncer • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 08:42 PM

I agree with you. However woman with low body counts that don't possess the above qualities are generally out of the de regulated dating market. When dating you enter a free for all and it's crazy.

3 examples that happened over 3 weeks. At time Im 38m with wingman (m24 he was a virgin I was on a mission to help him so I gamed hard)

Weekend 1. Meet tinder lara and sister. I Ended up fucking tinder lara f35 next to sister and wingman in a hotel room that has 2 beds. 2x Girls on an out of town girls trip in my city. Following. Weekend. Meet 2 girls 27f in club (out of town girls trip) . I fuck one in hotel bathroom and wingman fuck his in bed. Weekend three. Meet girl (local) I had been working on and fucked f25 in front seat of car while different wingman m28 made out in backseat with another girl f19.

I also fucked 1-2 plates during the week.

A skinny girl in the western world has to be something different if she's not giving in to the allure of pure unadulterated dopamine validation she gets from being said girl.

LightOverWater • 2 points • 26 July, 2021 03:14 PM

Most women in their 20s have less 5 sexual partners.

The data you posted is prior to hookup apps and modern social media. The social media back then was mostly centered around friendships/communication in local circles... it was not the modern day social media using insta/tiktok to DM for hookups. In other words, there was no live feed to fuck hundreds of people at any given time.

The 19-year-old woman today is completely different than the 19-year-old woman from 2006 (this true for all women, but the younger ones in particular have more sexual power today).

DarkMindwithReason • 6 points • 25 July, 2021 02:48 PM

This is a complex issue which I'll summarise in a few points with my personal opinion, not necessarily RP.

1. Men primally desire beautiful women above all
2. Male sexual nature is intrinsically objectifying
3. Porn and masturbation addiction, onlyfans, Instagram models, escorts etc have risen male standards of beauty
4. Men will do a lot to not settle with ugly women

That's all I can think of for now.

NameGiver0 • 4 points • 25 July, 2021 03:01 PM

NameGiver0 • 3 points • 25 July, 2021 06:31 PM

IceC19 • 2 points • 26 July, 2021 01:43 AM

It's funny that you didn't retort to the part where he says women find almost all guys unattractive.

LillthOfBabylon[S] • 1 point • 26 July, 2021 10:24 AM

The same study that most women find 80% of men unattractive also found out that guys only pursued the hottest women, which proves my point about guys here mainly chasing bimbos.

ShiroSagisu • 2 points • 26 July, 2021 04:03 PM

And women didnt pursue anyone. Your point?

LillthOfBabylon[S] • 2 points • 26 July, 2021 04:18 PM

They did. You guys just cherry pick what you notice.

DarkMindwithReason • -1 points • 25 July, 2021 03:03 PM

All I know is I want the most beautiful woman I can get.

There's a reason why 45 year old men will cheat on their average looking 43 year old wife with the 23 year old smoking hot secretary or intern or whatever lol.

HappilyMrs • 7 points • 25 July, 2021 05:02 PM

And this is precisely why a woman needs to vet hard before picking a man to marry. We know full well that a lot of men would cheat given the chance. So finding one that wont is crucial. A guy who is keen on casual sex and banging lots of women is a less good choice in the long term.

DarkMindwithReason • -2 points • 25 July, 2021 05:15 PM

The man is the one who proposes, women want marriage more than men do. Dont act like men love marriage.

Arguably it's worse when a woman cheats than when a man cheats.

HappilyMrs • 6 points • 25 July, 2021 05:18 PM

Do you have stats for women loving marriage more than men?

Why is that worse?

LillthOfBabylon[S] • 7 points • 25 July, 2021 03:54 PM

You're right. u/NameGiver0 is ignoring that Okcupid discovered that the vast majority of men were messaging the 8s and up.

DarkMindwithReason • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 04:22 PM

Lol yeah. I describe it as the "internal ugliness resistance", men's internal resistance to ugly women. It's like when you're trying to start a new habit, get that resistance of stepping out your comfort zone, you don't wanna do it, it requires willpower. Genuinely a mental block. Similar to when men are swiping on dating apps, we MIGHT (pretty big might) swipe on an ugly woman but we don't really want to but we have no choice cause the women we really want the 8s, 9s, 10s most likely won't even notice us. There's more detail I wanna add but don't wanna waffle.

Internal ugliness resistance leads to what I call "the never ending cope", play on words of the phrase: the never ending hope, but both are interchangeable arguably. It is the ability of us men to keep pursuing and swiping on attractive women in hope that one day one attractive woman will give us the time of day and eventually become our friends with benefits, girlfriend and later on wife. It really is what we tell ourselves and do to make ourselves feel better about our low SMV value, cope with the fact that maybe we don't deserve a 10/10 woman though we only want a 10/10 at heart.

Something to think about.

MisterFlipside • 5 points • 25 July, 2021 02:36 PM

This is an odd point to make. Kinda skirts along a lot more pressing issues.

At best, that phrase 'chasing all types of women' just means they get rejected by all types by swiping on tinder. Those 'other' girls arent really visible for men because they dont go to the bar scene, and they dont like cold approaches.

These men are chasing high libido women, and there's absolutely nothing wrong with that. Problem is, high libido women are AWALT as fuck.

The 'other' women are much more likely to wind sex down to once a week, then once a month, then once every 3 months, etc. So why waste time with them?

LillthOfBabylon[S] • 10 points • 25 July, 2021 03:04 PM

Most couples, especially married couples, have sex on a weekly basis. Most sex winds down as people get older, anyway. That's why choosing a spouse solely based on good sex is very stupid.

Edit: Those "other girls" want a relationship and aren't willing to give instant sexual gratification.

MisterFlipside • 10 points • 25 July, 2021 03:06 PM

Most sex winds down because one party winds it down and the other tolerates it because of other factors in the relationship. This goes hand in hand with my statement earlier this week about how most men are sexually unsatisfied.

VasiliyZaitzev • 7 points • 25 July, 2021 05:26 PM

most men are sexually unsatisfied.

I would not be shocked by this at all. I think a good chunk of married guys lead lives of quiet deprivation.

A buddy of mine - and yes, I know, he's just one data point - stays with his wife for the sake of his kids and he maybe gets laid 2-4 times a year. I doubt he's an isolated case.

biggestuzifanea • 8 points • 25 July, 2021 03:40 PM

It winds down because of women, that's why lesbians have the highest rates of dead bedroom and gay men have the lowest

LillthOfBabylon[S] • 7 points • 25 July, 2021 03:45 PM*

biggestuzifanea • 5 points • 25 July, 2021 04:18 PM

How did you come to that conclusion? I'm saying due to estrogen sex will fall off. If women know that why are they not okay with men getting that part satisfied somewhere else. If a man stopped paying bills or taking their wives on dates wouldn't women look somewhere else?

HappilyMrs • 3 points • 25 July, 2021 05:06 PM

She came to that conclusion because she's u/LillthOfBabylon. There's no point in trying to talk to her. She just said men have to put up with all women being shitty lovers, but then claims that it's simply men picking shitty lovers, and therefore there must be good female lovers out there. At best, her claim would be that bimbos are shitty partners, but clearly they're the superior lovers.

LillthOfBabylon[S] • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 04:25 PM

If women know that why are they not okay with men getting that part satisfied somewhere else.

We do want those guys to do that somewhere else. AWAY FROM US.

We "withhold sex" to get rid of guys like that because they make terrible spouses.

If a man stopped paying bills or taking their wives on dates

If he's solely doing that for sex, he's a sugar daddy. Unless they agree to be in a Sugar Relationship, she should definitely go somewhere else and find a man who doesn't see her as a fleshlight.

Banned_BY_SOYMEN • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 05:00 PM

They use sex as leverage to get commitment. Once that commitment is legally binding, they no longer have to do what you want. Understand?

VasiliyZaitzev • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 05:27 PM

Sure, and wives should "just get over it" and accept it when their husbands cheat or visit hookers. /s

LillthOfBabylon[S] • 3 points • 25 July, 2021 05:33 PM

Again, you're proving that women "withholding sex" from guys they're dating is a good idea. Studies show that cheaters cheat opportunistically. Women would rather be with men who know how to control their sexual urges.

VasiliyZaitzev • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 05:42 PM

To the contrary, not withholding sex is, on the whole, a better idea. As I have said to women I date, "If my cock is in you, then it cannot simultaneously be in some other girl" If she's going to keep me, then she's going to keep me happy. To wit, I never cheated on my primary uni girlfriend, and a large factor in that was she would have sex with me three times a day (we were 19 and she had a high drive, too, so it was literally morning, noon and night.) I didn't have the time or the inclination.

Men will often take the path of least resistance and if they have a wife/girlfriend who will happily bed them down, then why go out and put up with all the crap you have to put up with to get over the goal line with another girl?

Sure there will be some % guys who will be serial cheaters, but for most guys a hand in the bush is worth two birds...or something like that.

LillthOfBabylon[S] • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 05:59 PM

Not withholding sex is, on the whole, a better idea.

Even men admit that's dumb to do.

"If my cock is in you, then it cannot simultaneously be in some other girl"

So unless she's a cocksleeve with a dick in her 24/7, she should expect to be cheated on?

Yeah no. That's a terrible to boyfriend to have.

Men will often take the path of least resistance

Exactly. That's why this subreddit only knows shitty women. Those women are hot and easy.

Sure there will be some % guys who will be serial cheaters,

Exactly. They have no self control. Its better to vet them out.

Banned_BY_SOYMEN • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 04:43 PM

Your statements are just a euphemism for, "women use sex as leverage to get commitment from men, and once that commitment is legally binding — they turn off the sex then".

LillthOfBabylon[S] • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 04:58 PM

Your statements are just a euphemism for, "women use sex as leverage to get commitment from men, Except people here have posted studies showing that most relationships started thanks to friendships and mutual friends, not being fuckbuddies. Most fuckbuddies don't even become a couple.

they turn off the sex then".

Married people have more sex than single people, and more married people are fucking weekly than people merely going steady.

Banned_BY_SOYMEN • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 05:09 PM

Stratify those married couples by years married. It paints a much different picture.

LillthOfBabylon[S] • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 06:48 PM

There wasnt much difference between 25 to 35 and 35 to 45. Its in one of the links I posted, most likely link 2, eTable5.

Banned_BY_SOYMEN • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 07:04 PM

You're acting like having sex once a week is a lot of sex, and even then, less than half of total married couples get this amount of sex.

Not to mention, in context of a marriage — this is more or less obligation/pity sex.

Jambi1913 • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 06:05 PM

Most men cut down on the amount of spontaneous romantic gestures they make, put less effort into being thoughtful or cut down on the amount of compliments they give over time. You know why? Because at the beginning they do their best to impress and woo a woman and this means exaggerating some traits and behaviours they know she finds especially pleasing. Generally speaking, men are not as thoughtful or generous with their time and attention as women - it doesn't come as naturally to them to frequently emotionally engage, give little gifts and anticipate a woman's needs and desires. It's just natural that once he becomes more comfortable with a woman and she's "his", some of these behaviours will slacken off.

It also doesn't come naturally to most women to want sex every day for years on end, give frequent blowjobs and wear uncomfortable but sexy underwear. Many women do those things more at the beginning to make the effort to please a man. It's natural that this slackens off over time as she gets more comfortable.

Basically, both men and women set high expectations in one another in the beginning because both are behaving somewhat "unnaturally" in order to get in the door. It's inevitable that men will pay less attention to a woman over time - and this often leads to women feeling like he doesn't care as much and is taking her for granted. It's also inevitable that women will be less sexual over time and this often leads to men feeling rejected and uncared for. Neither is really true because a man can love a woman very much, but forget her birthday or not be very thoughtful about her needs. And a woman can love a man very much and not want sex that often.

biggestuzifanea • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 06:19 PM

I mean that's why I don't advocate for marriage at all, but the problem here is that since marriage is anti-male, Women don't have to keep up their side of the bargain but men have to or else there are consequences

CFinCanada • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 04:11 PM*

If a man thinks all women are like that, that man should seriously just spend money on pros and stop dating. Like seriously. Just stop.

MisterFlipside • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 04:49 PM

Why is that?

CFinCanada • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 05:00 PM

I think the question should be reversed. Why date if every woman is the same and every relationship will have the same outcome? No suspense no surprises. Sounds tedious. Like, what's the point? Do you just want cuddles? How expensive is the girlfriend experience if you were to pay for it? Is a girlfriend just cheaper? Help me understand.

MisterFlipside • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 05:04 PM

Dont get me wrong, women can be great companions. Relationships have a lot to offer outside of sex. But the slow drying of the well is expected, and we just live with it.

Or cheat. Some men cheat. I wouldnt, but thats how some men try to stay satisfied.

pygmy_puff • 5 points • 25 July, 2021 02:50 PM

Number of sexual partners and extroversion have nothing to do with the libido.

MisterFlipside • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 02:57 PM

An introverted woman with a high libido is bordering on unicorn territory, and impossible to suss out until you're years into a relationship. Most women will bring the most sex at the beginning, and then tone it down to their choosing. Its easier to just find a woman who is upfront about their sexuality out the gate.

An introverted woman is not going to let you know she's high libido, so she gets passed over. Nothing more logical than that.

VasilyZaitzev • 3 points • 25 July, 2021 05:24 PM

An introverted woman with a high libido is bordering on unicorn territory

Oh, I dunno about that. Lots of introvert girls are secret horndogs. They just don't advertise it. My natural prey is tall, slender, introvert girls. One you crack open the hard shell, they are very often molten lava within. Never pass over an introvert for being an introvert.

Master-Edward-3 • 4 points • 25 July, 2021 05:00 PM*

I'm sure there are nerdy women that reject men on the regular too for asking them out due to working at Burger King or are "cursed" under a specific height. Because a self proclaimed woman is a nerd and not a diva Queen or the recognized textbook ☐ ☐ ☐ Stacy classification doesn't mean she will not be cold hearted.

Only way to prove this won't be for retarded stats or links asked for daily..but will require actual men and boys recording the responses of bekkies in real time or through online. Nerd women on dating sites also ignore well thought out messages as well that were uniquely crafted, or ghost after awhile of building rapport for no reason.. If you try to use internet dating as the issue then more often than not online dating is the amplification of real life real world dating.

These are the phenomenons that needs to be screen shot and displayed to demonstrate. Over stats that are always gonna be nit picked and matched with an opposing article that says the opposite in half baked attempts to shut down the opposite side. To make you seem smarter.

I've witnessed first hand women openly reject guys that actually looked decent in comparison to themselves. Only women can and do this. Men rejecting a woman better than himself is more rare than Haley's comet. ☐ ☐ If we go back to that number scale again. The 4 male won't reject a 5 or 6 female to gain a 7 female. Yet the 4 female will reject a 5 or 6 male to gain a 7 male for possible auto hookups or sex but not likely a relationship because the 7 would commit to another 7 and up. The 4 female being female and getting sex on tap like most women cannot understand the fact of value that she's technically doing better than her 4 male counterparts by at least getting occasional hookups without strings attached by better looking partners no less at times...but is spoiled by this due to it being relatively simpler than it is for most men on her level.

Random Reddit User: What!? Bullshit! Where's your fucking sources where scientists wanted to waste their time finding that shit out for some reason..for me to dismiss it with my own?! Fuck logical real life accounts dude.. you just don't have a personality or serial kill or take mud baths in your folks basement.

Lonelybuthopeful9 • 5 points • 25 July, 2021 09:19 PM

Yeah thats enough, even the ugliest girls starts rejecting guys since high school, while some mens stay incel till their 30s.

Truth is there is one type of female, and that is the one that lies about how easy her dating life is, its just her looks change, not that basic truth.

lilac-blouse • 7 points • 26 July, 2021 12:01 AM even the ugliest girls starts rejecting guys since high school

Because it's easy to see when a guy doesn't actually like you. Just because someone is ugly doesn't mean they want to sign up for being used and abused by someone.

throwawayindisbelief • 3 points • 26 July, 2021 10:48 AM*

This cannot be emphasized enough. A while back I asked a subgroup of lonely men if they would sleep with or enter into a relationship with a woman they hated and/or hated them in turn. And they said yes.

I find that Reddit forgets that dating somebody requires the daters to like each other's personal qualities and have life-things in common. Perhaps hookup culture has de-humanized and commodified us. Online dating prioritizes appearance, which appeals to the lizard brain, which is devolving us.

ShiroSagisu • 2 points • 26 July, 2021 04:11 PM

So you reject because you acn somehow detect that yet abusive relationships and pump and dump still happen. funny

lilac-blouse • 1 point • 26 July, 2021 06:23 PM

Yes, because vulnerable, naive, and manipulative people exist. Not everyone gets pumped and dumped, some people can and do reject people because they're insincere, some people are more manipulative than others, etc.

ShiroSagisu • 3 points • 26 July, 2021 06:43 PM

Ah yes manipulative. Why werent the personality detectors working. This is just so funny

A fat ugly girl gets asked out and she tries to say that she rejects because she is probably getting manipulated xD

Mrs_Drgree • 11 points • 25 July, 2021 01:19 PM

Most women are that one type of woman. That's why we have AWALT. It does a man no favors to assume any given woman is not like that.

The_Meep_Lord • 8 points • 25 July, 2021 01:41 PM

Not to mention that op's studies are outdated.

Most of the modern dating issues just started happening in the early 2010s.

We need data from the mid 10s to get an idea on what is really going on at all.

LillthOfBabylon[S] • 3 points • 25 July, 2021 01:51 PM

TheChocolateBarsGuy • 3 points • 25 July, 2021 02:23 PM

Again the data from dating apps which is the most honest type of data tells otherwise.

Women find minority of men attractive while men find majority of women attractive.

Self reporting on studies is absolute garbage.

Why do we know that data from dating apps are correct and reflect datinv realities online ? Because people can be ruthless on it with no pressure if they do not find a type of men attractive they just swipe left.

No pressure to be nice or lie about what they want when there is no social consequences of her thinking and swipping left on majority of men. While in the real world a woman would never say it outright expect for the few loud mouths who at least are honest about what they want. Not that they will get it but anyways.

LillthOfBabylon[S] • 6 points • 25 July, 2021 02:58 PM

Women find minority of men attractive while men find majority of women attractive.

Women also messaged larger array of guys while men only messages 8s and up. I love that you didnt mention THAT PART.

Self reporting on studies is absolute garbage.

"Everyone who disagrees with me is wrong!"

Why do we know that data from dating apps are correct and reflect datinv realities online ?
Because people can be ruthless on it

“Studies are garbage but anecdotes are solid proof!”

TheChocolateBarsGuy • 6 points • 25 July, 2021 03:01 PM*

Did you just call millions of peoples swipes anecdote ?

It doesn't matter if women messaged more guys since the only guys they messaged are the guys all women are after.

If for every 10 dude 2 of them get majority of swipe right by 10 women who do you think has the upper hand ?

The 2 dudes who have multiple options thus not needing to messge the women who swipe on them.

That's like a dude bitching about messaging the top 20% hottest women like models and never getting replies ☐ While he is an average dude.

If an average dude kept going after the top 20% hottest women with no results i would tell him it's time to either become more attractive or lower the standard.

That is exactly what most women are doing on dating apps ! All of them are going for the top guys. I am one of them so it's good for me. Then bitching about not getting results. While swipping off majority of men on the dating app.

More women date and have sex. In what world do men want the same type of girl when compared to men.

Men are attracted to and date more different type of women than men. That's a hard truth.

You really think self reported self esteem is the best way to measure self esteem? Now why would men report self esteem higher than women?

Here's the thing, if a woman is decently attractive, not no model but at least a 6, she is most likely part of the AWALT.

All the women saying these bullet points don't apply to them are most likely physically unattractive to most men

LillthOfBabylon[S] • 17 points • 25 July, 2021 02:08 PM

Here's the thing, if a woman is decently attractive, not no model but at least a 6, she is most likely part of the AWALT.

According to OK Cupid, the majority of messages were going to the hottest women, rated 8 or higher.

All the women saying these bullet points don't apply to them are most likely physically unattractive to most men

So as I expected, men choose to chase these women. Just like dumb Karens choose to fuck shitty men.

rivetcitymayor • -3 points • 25 July, 2021 02:18 PM

I'm not talking about ok Cupid, I'm talking about dating all around. So you expect men to date unattractive women so we can prove you right lol ?

What women do we choose ? I'm talking about any woman who is a legit 6 or above ! Not hot IG models and yes this is coming from a guy who takes care of his appearance so I'm not asking for something I'm not providing

I'm not talking about ok Cupid, I'm talking about dating all around. So you expect men to date unattractive women so we can prove you right lol ?

For all the complaints about women having high expectations of men, we atleast and compromise on looks. It seems men here arent willing to do the same thing.

Also, if HE is unattractive, why should an attractive girl want him?

What women do we choose ?

Prima donna types.

I'm talking about any woman who is a legit 6 or above !

And yet guys here cant find nice wholesome 6s? Theyre ALWAYS bitchy, golddigging, and manipulative?

She sounds like she is a hot IG model.

rivetcitymayor • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 02:40 PM

You compromise on looks given that he offers ....

I'm not unattractive, people often ask why am I single, cause they can't figure it out, that's how ridiculous it is out here

A wholesome 6-7 is a man's dreams but they are very rare is all I'm saying

And of course, women never recognize these characteristics in themselves.

Soft disagree. A lot of average women can exhibit the bullet point behaviors, but it's not to the extent this sub makes it out to be. But you are also presenting the worst case scenarios as if they are typical, so you're doing the same thing. Some of those behaviors all women are prone to as they are learning how to sort men out. But they usually learn (tho some are slower learners than others) and mature and move on.

The thing is there are always people, men and women, who are stuck in the anger phase, and there always will be, and since they are the most vocal it comes to resemble the permanent condition of men and women.

I've said this in response to AWALT before, but AWALT to me is AWALT until you prove otherwise. But how long she lets her feels cloud her perception is different for all chicks.

I truly believe that all women start out craving the masculine to a T bad boy/fuckboy type... then, it bites them in the ass and they say "hey maybe I don't want to stay with a guy that's abusive/manipulating/controlling/etc. just because I "like" him and he's not "boring"... so they start to hone in on guys who aren't "boring"... but in a non toxic way (which is definitely the minority and harder to find.

Some women literally never get to that stage and they blame the world and everything under the sun for their shitty vetting techniques.... They're the AWALT that'll always be AWALT.

And as a guy who had fucked all types of women, that's my perception Burden of proof is on YOU.

no, it's not. you're the one making a claim, based on a study that interviews people who are guaranteed to be honest about their sex lives (ayt) whether or not they've had vaginal sex, ignoring blowjobs and anal for some reason. then you say "most women in their 20's have only had maximum 5 sexual partners". according to this study, that's accurate, consider 57% of 4.5k responders. and then there's estimates in millions. so there's still quite a good chance that these issues men have you complain about are widespread, considering everyone lives in different areas and environments and experiences different relationships. if we assume all those chaste women didn't lie or have had oral or anal. then there's some disturbing data about 17% of responders losing their virginity at 10-14... damn.

LillthOfBabylon[S] • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 05:03 PM

Either prove most of those people are lying or I'm ending this thread.

DarthMemus • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 07:28 PM

I mean, there's studies on how they lie, you could look them up <https://link.springer.com/article/10.1007/s11199-013-0266-3> even so, if you can't use your brain and you miss the nuances of the very research you present, while 2/3 of your links have nothing to do with the points you make, you're lost girl

bronotatheist • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 03:26 PM

You are getting it wrong.

The general thing said by Men is that women tend to prefer men who are good looking. This is normal since even men do the same. However the difference lies in how men and women perceive looks.

Women tend to rate much more harshly.

LillthOfBabylon[S] • 7 points • 25 July, 2021 03:50 PM

But what does that have to do with this post?

bronattheist • 0 points • 25 July, 2021 04:04 PM

I am trying to say that your proof tend to rather strengthen the above points.

A woman chooses Alphas and Alphas are few in number, Hence the low amount of sex partners.

LillthOfBabylon[S] • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 04:07 PM

They why do people in relationships have more sex than single people?

bronattheist • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 04:10 PM

A woman finds an attractive man.

She would obviously have a lot of sex with her. She is in a relationship because he is attractive.

LillthOfBabylon[S] • 3 points • 25 July, 2021 04:15 PM

A woman finds an attractive man.

Didn't we establish only 20% of men are considered physically attractive by women?

bronattheist • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 04:19 PM

How does it in any way contradict ?

A woman is mostly in a relationship with a member of the 20% pool. Unless a woman wants to date an ugly man.

LillthOfBabylon[S] • 4 points • 25 July, 2021 04:27 PM

Then only 20% of people of adults would be in a relationship. Nearly half the adult population is married.

bronattheist • 3 points • 25 July, 2021 04:30 PM

See this is the point.

A woman when young tends to chase chads. Chads are few. She gets into relationships with them. Few years down the line gets a beta and settles with marriage.

LillthOfBabylon[S] • 3 points • 25 July, 2021 04:34 PM

woman when young tends to chase chads.

How would you know? How are you defining Chad?

Few years down the line gets a beta and settles with marriage.

Yeah, most people settle.

nothatyoucare • 3 points • 26 July, 2021 01:18 AM

So tired of hearing women complain about who men pursue and/or chase when women don't do that at all. I matched up with a bitter Betty just like op sounds, complaining about being "invisible" and I asked her... "Since you weren't having guys come after you, did you take the initiative and go after the men you wanted?" Fucking no, of course not. Its so very rich to hear this constant critiquing and complaining about how men go about a process that women, generally speaking, refuse to do themselves. Anyway...

Let me see... First gf was 1/4 Japanese and white. Then a white girl. Fell for a girl from Indian but didn't work out. First major adult relationship girl was Jamaican. After her came the white girl with literal BPD who was taller than me.

I've approached women of all races and backgrounds, but yeah, we go after the same type of woman.

helloiamheretohelp • 0 points • 25 July, 2021 01:38 PM

'You better have proof' not really. My lived experience is solid and I trust it, and I've dated a wide variety of women (in terms of occupation, personality type, hotness). And don't give me the 'you're dating girls off apps so no wonder' excuse; apps are the only place to date in a large city in 2021

TotalTravesty • 5 points • 25 July, 2021 01:56 PM

I've lived in a large city for most of my dating life. My lived experience says population centers should be the least app-dependent parts of the world. When I got to a big city and broke out of my socially anxious app-dependent shell, I found dating opportunities just living my life: co-ed groups to hang out with every week where opportunities arise. I once had an opportunity to date a girl I met from a hangout my fiend was throwing and I ducked into because it was only a few blocks from where I live.

Don't confuse convenience for dependence. City girls use dating apps but only passively because they're spending most of their time living in the city.

helloiamheretohelp • 3 points • 25 July, 2021 02:01 PM

In London we've had three lockdowns and even before then social circles were tight-knit. Meetup groups were a giant sausagefest, it was well-accepted that most would be 80% guys and the language exchange in particular was notorious as a vehicle for local men to try and get with wide-eyed au pairs and new arrivals.

Anyone who is serious about dating here is on an app.

Additionally, you really don't want to be wedded to a system that doesn't have high throughput where you can't quickly replace a woman who messes you around

TotalTravesty • 5 points • 25 July, 2021 02:21 PM*

Well I think we should all give grace to the last year and a half. The pandemic has fucked standard socialization in ways that'll take years for us to fully comprehend.

Here's the thing about meetups: I know most meetups are sausagefests, but that's because guys choose the easiest meetups to go to. "Oh, I like video games and whiskey. I'll just go to a video games and whiskey meetup...heeeeeey, what are all these guys doing here?!" A female friend had to literally drag me to a dance meetup she wanted to go to and not only was it fun, it was thoroughly co-ed and I had a couple of opportunities over the years that I've been a part of it. The women in that group were on apps, but they also had their eyes open to the men (what few who actually showed up) right in front of them.

That's why I roll my eyes at guys who dismiss the value of platonic female friends. If you're not an ass to them they'll lead you to where the women are.

helloiamheretohelp • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 03:17 PM

'A couple of opportunities over the years (plural)' is not going to cut the mustard. Two girls in two years? Hardly abundance. Imagine getting into an LTR and thinking 'oh shit if she leaves me I may have to wait another two years to get some warmth and affection from a woman again'! Sounds more stressful than being single tbh. Throughput on apps destroys IRL throughput, even if you're an 'average guy'.

In terms of meetups being sausagefests... this includes things like salsa. For years this was the standard advice for single guys in London — if you can't find women through friends and on the apps, go to the meetup salsa classes. Think way overrepresented (I never went but I know people who did back in the day and told me this)

mindsanitizer • 4 points • 25 July, 2021 03:35 PM

When the salsa classes are mostly men there is nowhere else to turn. That's like the last good card in the game.

helloiamheretohelp • 5 points • 25 July, 2021 03:40 PM

It was meme advice in London in 2014...

I really think the next step in dating is pretty much becoming a low-level IG celebrity and 'farming' prospects via DM as one might in sales

Estaim • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 09:13 PM

Moved to London few months before the pandemic...the dating market is an absolute nightmare: OLD are hyper competitive and even if you luck out someone, the attractive girls on there are usually super low value besides their looks (no educated, entitled, wanna-be model/musicians airheads, borderline mental/relationship issues, etc..). Never been to meet-ups due to the lockdown but just looking at the participants they all seem sausage-fests. Also, based on my experience in other cities, meet-ups that are just used as a pick up venue are super sad and depressing...I get creeped out even as a male...I go three times a week to the gym and once to yoga, but it is just impossible to approach girls there, everyone (rightly so) minds their own business at the gym. Literally the only left places to meet a potential partner are the office or through friends of friends...not exactly a huge pool of people. Also as an Italian, it shocks me how cold and generally unfriendly brits are

TotalTravesty • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 03:28 PM

The only reason it was a couple of opportunities was because I've been in an LTR for years. Now I'm just some ordinary dude and I don't claim to have abundance (not that abundance was ever on the table for discussion--you're starting to move the goalposts), but if I got attention just living my life without trying to get attention, I have to think that it wouldn't be too hard (and certainly not a matter of years) if I were trying again.

Again, it's not because of chadness or alphaness or any other TRP claptrap, but because dating is a numbers game. And if you live in a place where there are literally thousands of eligible people within walking distances of where you live, the numbers should be in your favor. If you put down the phone.

helloiamheretohelp • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 03:33 PM

Abundance is a measure, as well as a goal. The average guy have more options through apps than a couple of women in two years hit on you in dance classes. Hardly moving goalposts.

If you had ten times the IRL opportunities, it would still be quite a way off what you could get from apps if you took them seriously.

TotalTravesty • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 03:50 PM

If the average guy has more options through apps why are so many people here crying about not being successful on apps?

I don't think we disagree as much as it seems. My only disagreement was with your assertion that apps are the only way in big cities. Diversify your portfolio. Even if you want to be a manwhore who gets a new girl every day, you would do well to also look for girls who aren't on apps--especially when so many of them are right there?

[deleted] • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 04:27 PM

It's quite amusing to watch an unsuccessful guy (in the dating context) argue with a successful one on how to land that exact success. This sub really should be listening and watching intently at what the paired up people here are advising and sharing about their experiences. Why would anyone take advice from another unsuccessful person instead of the successful one?!

TotalTravesty • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 04:44 PM

Right. There's such unreasonable distrust here of paired up people or those who have succeeded in whatever individual dating goals they had. Can't tell you all the times when I was told I was betabuxxing, despite my gf paying equally for dates. But because my gf splits dates, I must be dating down, even though I'm more than happy with what I found. But some Reddit expert wants to know the details of my sex life to determine how happy I really am.

I went through hell and back growing up--physically, emotionally, mentally--to get myself to the point where I can be a datable man with enough options (not an abundance of Victoria's Secret models, but enough for an average guy to expect) that I ended up with what I wanted. If I call bullshit on these Reddit theories it's because I know how bullshit they are. And I'm not some wizard either. Just a guy who shut off the internet echo chamber and took the "real grown up life" pill. But if they want to continue suffering, I'll just stick around for the laughs.

helloiamheretohelp • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 04:04 PM

They aren't right there that's the point.

Guys complain on apps because they don't have many matches and when they do they are 2-3 points below their own looks level percentile-wise. This is still better than 'real life'.

Jaktenba • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 06:08 PM

Imagine having women throw themselves at your feet, and yet claiming you don't have any of that "TRP claptrap".

But good luck with all this nonsense as feminists fight for cold approaches to be made illegal, and approaching at work or school/college into sexual harassment.

FlyingKite1234 • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 04:25 PM

apps are the only place to date in a large city in 2021

bullshit. If you're living in a big city, bars and clubs bring far better results than a dating app would. Dating apps are literally a pay to win mobile game.

I think the self selection issue is in large part caused by Online dating rather than men. You made the right choice of surrounding yourself with good people but that doesn't work online.

omegaatlas • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 06:16 PM

No one is saying that one woman has all those characteristics. What we're saying is that women may present at least one of these characteristics. Women never initiate an interaction so men are more likely to be desperate and cast a wife net in terms of who they go after

CluelessCat • 2 points • 25 July, 2021 07:12 PM

Women do initiate interactions.

abaxeron • 1 point • 25 July, 2021 08:22 PM*

Well, you better have proof that you're right and I'm wrong.

Swedish nationwide data shows almost identical rates of podophyllotoxin prescription for genital warts among men and women of non-offending population. American data shows that women are ALMOST TWICE as likely as men to have the clam.

"Hah, funny how you leave out all other dise.." - It's gays. The greater prevalence of other diseases among men is almost entirely due to gays. Here:

"Between 2010 and 2015, the MSM-to-Women gonorrhea rate ratio increased from 13:1 to 24:1, and the MSM-to-MSW gonorrhea rate ratio increased from 16:1 to 31:1."

I.e., men who have sex with women have lower rates of gono than women. Specifically, 0.81 times as much in 2010 and 0.77 times in 2015.

"Well maybe it's lesb-" - Maybe; the point stands. Last time I checked, there were not enough "exclusive" lesbians in the world to form a statistically significant sample. Women "who identify as" usually still have varied and prolonged experiences of hetero relationships. The opposite is also true; there is a significant bunch of apron-wearing tradcon-esque wives right now who went through lesbian phase in their teen years. The same is.... not as true for men.

"But-but-but it's ANATOMY it's just NATURAL that..." - YES. It's just NATURAL that women of reproductive age have greater immune responses than men, produce antibodies more easily, produce more antibodies, and show greater immunity to every single infection, as it has been well established even back in the 1940s, EXCEPT STIs.

Or maybe they just lie on surveys about amount of sex partners.

Another evidence is the (in)famous cheating survey. I've already highlighted on multiple occasions that the statistical picture we see for women is simply impossible. Women whose youth was in the friggin' 1960s report lower rates of extramarital sex than modern women. But what is curious is that the same survey was conducted 15 times, and the picture is more-or-less the same. I.e. either the US had a GIANT influx of immigrant non-cheating women, OR women who reported cheating EVER 10, 20, or 30 years ago report less "cheating ever" today.

Here on page 50 we see that by year 1994, the "most cheating" female birth cohort was 1943-52, reporting 20% extramarital sex ever, while 1953-62 cohort reported 15%.

By year 2016, the birth cohort of 1946-55 (7-year overlap with previous cohort) reported ever cheating rate of 16%. Unless the US saw ENORMOUS influx of non-cheating female immigrants, IT'S THE SAME WOMEN.

I don't know; maybe their vajayas are magickal and allow them to alter the past.

OR maybe they just lie on surveys about cheating.

Take your pick which is more probable. I'll just look if this alterations in reporting correspond with The Forgetting Curve.

Finally, this article's graphs speak for themselves. Highest suicide rates by sex, age, and marital status are observed for White widowed males aged 20-24. For their female counterparts, the rate is so low it doesn't allow to form an estimate.

Pastelitomaracucho • 4 points • 25 July, 2021 01:50 PM

Most people are fat.

most of the women said "6ft,

I know you're lying because I asked women's height preference years ago. Most women said "just be taller than me" and men threw such a fit that women didn't say "over 6 feet" that the mods had to lock my post down.
