Can someone explain how the domain "np.reddit.com" works? I've never heard of it. Been on Reddit 18+ months.

redpillschool[S] • 2 points • 30 August, 2013 01:41 PM

Any subreddit that's participating uses css rules to disable voting and commenting from people who arrive on a np.reddit.com domain.

It's opt-in.

Just have to post links with the np subdomain if you're linking to other parts of reddit.

For instance, this post:

http://www.reddit.com/r/RedPillWomen/comments/1ginl2/mod_posting_rules/cbyd9a3?context=3

Would be changed to:

http://np.reddit.com/r/RedPillWomen/comments/1ginl2/mod_posting_rules/cbyd9a3?context=3

Thanks! I didn't know that. Can you add this info to the Posting Rules post?

Women don't have trouble getting sex.

They do have trouble with life-long happiness and fulfillment through relationships. Just like men.

Correction, attractive women don't have trouble getting sex.

I agree. I'm hoping it includes dating, relationship, and of course marriage advice. I'd like to see stories similar to TRP except how becoming submissive has changed her relationship dynamics.

From the side-bar: This is women's spot to discuss objectively and realistically sexual strategy with the focus on long-term goals that bring long-term happiness.

Yes, dating, relationship and marriage advice.

Is how to add value to your relationship in ways not sexual included in that too?

redpillschool[S] • 0 points • 17 June, 2013 05:22 PM

Adding value to your relationship in nonsexual ways is still sexual strategy.

TempestTcup • 5 points • 17 June, 2013 05:28 PM

Thanks, just making sure. I know my man is a lot more sexual when he's well fed, happy, relaxed, etc.

Wrecksomething • 3 points • 17 June, 2013 08:20 PM

This is women's spot to discuss objectively and realistically

Is that possible here?

Women in male spaces prevent their objectivity yet this female space is being run by men. Perhaps the reverse does not apply though...?

redpillschool[S] • -1 points • 17 June, 2013 08:21 PM

Unusual, but possible. It's already happening!

[deleted] • 2 points • 18 June, 2013 12:36 PM

This is actually a pretty good thing to debate regardless. I find it is usually easier to be realistic and objective around men in real life. However, I never really discuss dating strategy with men in real life. You generally get useless advice, maybe the internet can help?

SoftHarem • -3 points • 17 June, 2013 04:32 PM with the focus on long-term goals that bring long-term happiness.

A nearly 6 year throwaway? Dedication.
