

Local university now mandates "Title IX" training (anti-male/misandric indoctrination) for everyone that includes the male students as the target demographic to attack.

March 2, 2017 | 55 upvotes | by bp blew up the gulf

Mandatory - Student Campus Safety Training through EverFi

1 message

TITLEIXCOORDINATOR@uvu.edu <TITLEIXCOORDINATOR@uvu.edu>

Tue, Feb 28, 2017 at 7:30 PM

Reply-To: Compliance <compliance@uvu.edu>

To: [REDACTED]

UTAH VALLEY UNIVERSITY

Dear [REDACTED]

Utah Valley University (UVU) is committed to providing a supportive learning environment and fostering safe, healthy relationships among our students. As part of our commitment to these goals, the University has enacted Policy 182 Sexual Misconduct; the University and its community members adhere to this policy and will not tolerate the offenses of harassment, dating violence, domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking. To educate students, faculty, and staff, UVU provides training on these issues as required by Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, the Violence against Women Act (VAWA), the SaVe Act, and the Clery Act.

This training is part of an on-going educational program regarding several topics relevant to college life, including relationship violence, sexuality, drug and alcohol use, and sexual assault, as well as resources for reporting and resolving sexual misconduct/violence. This program is intended to help you learn more about these issues, your responsibilities, your rights, your options, and your important role in preventing this type of conduct to help keep our campus safe.

To register for the training, please go to <https://shib.everfi.net/login/default.aspx?id=uvuhaven> and:

1. Enter your UVUID and password. This will take you to the Everfi training portal.
2. Check the "Accept the terms and conditions" box.
3. Click on the blue "Get Started" button. This takes you to the Haven program training modules.

You may take a break at any time during the course. The system will bookmark your spot so you can return later. The deadline for completing Part 1 of this course is within 14 days of this notice. After an intersession of 30 days, you will receive an email notification to complete Part 2. The deadline for completing Part 2 is within 14 days of that notice.

Please be aware that this course contains information about sexual assault and violence, difficult for individuals with a past experience of abuse. If you feel this training would be unacceptably upsetting for you, you may request an individual session by emailing TITLEIXCOORDINATOR@uvu.edu.

If you have any questions about UVU's policies/procedures please review the policy. If you have questions about the training content, or support resources related to harassment, dating violence, domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking, please contact TITLEIXCOORDINATOR@uvu.edu.

If you have concerns with completing the training online, you may request to attend a 1-hour in-person training by emailing TITLEIXCOORDINATOR@uvu.edu.

If you have questions/concerns with the online training subject matter, you may request to attend a 30-minute in-person FAQ session by emailing TITLEIXCOORDINATOR@uvu.edu. Dates and times for in-person sessions can be found at <https://www.uvu.edu/equalopportunity/index.html> under Resources & Training.

Thank you in advance for completing this training and for joining in UVU's efforts to maintain a respectful and safe educational environment.

Archived from theredarchive.com

Comments

Betsy-DevOps • 10 points • 2 March, 2017 03:19 PM

If you feel this training would be unacceptably upsetting for you, you may request an individual session...

Sounds like a good idea, since it appears to have already upset you.

Where's the evidence that this program targets male students, though? The letter you posted is gender neutral, aside from mentioning the "Violence Against Women Act". Does the training single out or stereotype men in any way, or is it more of a "hey, don't rape anybody" time waster?

mathwin • 8 points • 2 March, 2017 05:49 PM

Having taken this thing three times now as a requirement from my own university, I can tell you specifically how it targets men. Throughout the "course" there are five scenarios that are played as a series of short videos, followed by questions. In each of the five cases, the aggressor is a white man and the victim is a woman. There is almost no discussion of the rates of abuse in any situation other than a man abusing a woman, and at no time is any man depicted as being abused by anyone, nor is any woman depicted as being abused by anyone other than a white man.

The "course" also contains all of the false statistics that we've come to expect, like the "1 in 5" sexual assault thing, which they hilariously explain by providing the following definition:

"Sexual assault is any form of sexual contact that occurs without consent. It may occur through the use of verbal, emotional, or physical force, intimidation, or coercion."

This definition is broad enough that if a man looks in a woman's direction, and she interprets it as him looking at her in a "sexual" way, she can claim to have been sexually assaulted.

bp_blew_up_the_gulf[S] • 6 points • 2 March, 2017 03:36 PM

There is the implicit propaganda within the training (accurately called "cultural programming" that is similar to social engineering; same as indoctrination) that is hostile to the male sex for blaming.

Moreover, the mandatory "training" is nothing more than the thought policing in fostering the cultural Marxist propaganda that is designed to divide the male and female students, primarily, with the unease and disharmony as the result of indoctrination.

One of the founders of FIRE authored the book "Twisting Title IX" (video). There is the new book out called "The Campus Rape Frenzy" (article).

Title IX as expanded upon with malicious interpretation, in sum, only oppresses the men to emasculate, whilst causing the fear and caution in the women to be more reactive and thus accusatory or assumptive based on emotion infused with the new prejudice against the men on campus, that skews the gender relations to the point where it is awkward and artificial due to the indoctrination via social engineering, thanks to the communistic campus culture dominated by the communism-addled fanatics, even fake conservatives/Republicans such as the president of the aforementioned university who is essentially a Lincoln-worshipping Mormon cuckold.

CaptSnap • 7 points • 2 March, 2017 05:11 PM

All of your baggage aside.....I suggest going through the training with an open mind.

Take notes.

If you find something that is hostile to you or blames your sex or is malicious then take a screen shot and report it to your title IX coordinator.

Email the coordinator at your school as well as cc the state office for the Office of Civil Rights:
OCR.Denver@ed.gov

Others in other states can find their state office here

Give specific examples and be reasonable and professional.

DO NOT use the word "cuckold" or mention "communism-addled fanatics" or "fake conservatives/republicans" etc. Keep your speculation as to the social effects of the lessons to a minimal.

Honestly I think you might do better taking a screen shot and running it by some of your peers...maybe not specifically in this sub...but maybe some of your friends at your university, your roommate maybe? If others agree with you then a collective response is more powerful than an individual one.

AnotherDAM • 0 points • 2 March, 2017 06:29 PM

OP, it appears that /u/Betsy-DevOps (got to love people who play buzzword bingo with their usernames) has successfully trolled you.

Learn to spot a troll - this will be a much better use of your time.

Now, what in that letter specifically indicates that this is mandatory training? I see a deadline, but I see nothing specific which would indicate there are any consequences for simply refusing.

Take a look at the University of Minnesota's Haven page -- note once again it suggests a deadline but in tiny print at the bottom is the dead giveaway:

This activity is made possible through a grant from the Minnesota Coalition Against Sexual Assault (MNCASA), thanks to a legislative appropriation from the Public Safety Budget

It is an activity - that means it is 100% voluntary.

NPFFTW • -7 points • 2 March, 2017 04:18 PM*

Have you considered counselling? That's some "Bush did 9/11" level conspiracy thinking. The word salad is unreal. There is nothing wrong with this letter.

Edit: Keep the downvotes coming!

functionalsociopathy • 1 point • 2 March, 2017 11:17 PM

Oh, we will friend. :)

mathwin • 2 points • 2 March, 2017 05:52 PM

Having done this a few times now, some tips to safeguard your own sanity. It takes less than 20 minutes total, and you can complete it without reading or listening to anything, if you:

Click through every text screen as soon as the right arrow is clickable.

For every video, click on the "video transcript" button above it, scroll to the bottom, and click on next to skip the video.

Answer every multiple choice by just clicking randomly. It accepts any answer, right or wrong, sensible or nonsensical, with no complaints.

Even in the pre-test and the final test, it doesn't care if you're right or wrong. Just click one box for each question and click next.

Betsy-DevOps • 1 point • 2 March, 2017 06:31 PM

answer every multiple choice by just clicking randomly. It accepts any answer, right or wrong, sensical or nonsensical, with no complaints.

Great, now some feminist professor is going to write a paper about how misinformed students are, "despite seeing the facts!", and use it as justification to expand this kind of program.

AnotherDAM • 1 point • 2 March, 2017 06:32 PM

Why would you spend even 1 minute of your time on a non-mandatory on something you don't want to do - just to please a woman who isn't your mother, and who isn't going to get into bed with you (remember, she IS a Title IX coordinator).

The only way to kill this beast is to starve it to death. Playing the game only feeds it.

Eggs • 1 point • 2 March, 2017 06:47 PM

I've taken my university's Title IX training and it isn't as sexistbad as you would think. In practice, the enforcement of Title IX is sexist, but the training tries to be neutral (and usually gives examples from both sides).

AnotherDAM • 1 point • 2 March, 2017 07:17 PM

IT ISN'T MANDATORY

functionalsociopathy • 1 point • 2 March, 2017 11:14 PM

Email the UVU titleninecoordinator@uvu.edu saying that they sexually assaulted you by sending this explicit material.

The-beat-man • 0 points • 2 March, 2017 02:17 PM so why are you attending this man hating university in the first place?

bp_blew_up_the_gulf[S] • 2 points • 2 March, 2017 03:42 PM

It's the open enrollment university (as unusual as it sounds). I can't get in the prestigious university like the nearby BYU-Provo (plus, I'm an ex-Mormon, which is considered an apostate for blacklisting) or other college such as the University of Utah, which is also a misandric and communist school with its obsessions in gender studies, sociology, education that emphasizes critical race theory, and ethnic studies (that includes the hateful curricula called 'whiteness studies,' that is nothing but vilification and demonization of the white race).

I return to this school after several years of absence for personal reasons, to take the possible last required class to pass to complete my otherwise worthless A.S. degree in University Studies.

I am bothered by the fact that the political correctness mandate has become the norm, and there is no way to avoid this element regardless of any college to admit and attend.

This particular university has gotten worse in terms of pressing anti-white (Europhobia) and anti-male (misandrist with emphasis on feminism) propaganda since I first tried attending 2 decades ago, only to flunk out for personal and academic inadequacy reasons.