The international language of love

Krauser PUA | 4 November, 2010 | by krauserpua

My most recent lay was a Japanese girl who barely spoke English. I learned alot about concentrating on eye contact and vocal tone to keep her attention, then just ploughing with simple sentences. At least the Jap could make simple sentences and I could fall back on my own Japanese language in a pinch. I found a girl today who was even worse. But damn she's hot, so I kept going.

The video gets better from about the third minute when Suave finds the zoom control on my new camera. There's no exciting conversation here, just look for how animated she gets and the great eye contact she gives me. Love is an international language.....

Archived from theredarchive.com

www.TheRedArchive.com Page 1 of 1